KEY

The inventory below contains the names of Civil War veterans buried in Maryland, listed alphabetically first by county, then by cemetery name and then by surname. Included are burials in some defunct cemeteries where the re-interment of the veteran is not entirely clear. In some instances, cemeteries may be known locally by various names. Where appropriate, the different names of the cemeteries have been included.

There are many instances of variations in the spelling of the veterans name between their gravestone and unit roster. The spelling of the name as it appears on the gravestone is used in this list as names on roster lists are often spelled phonetically, but it is also known that spelling mistakes can be made on gravestones by the engravers. For consistency, the rank used in this list is taken from the two-volume History and Roster of Maryland Volunteers, War of 1861-1865 (referred to here as the “roster” or “unit roster”) or similar records. There are instances where the veteran’s rank on a gravestone differs from that shown on the roster. Additionally, an individual may have attained a different rank when they remained in service after the war. Where the veteran served in multiple units, including regiments from different states, only one unit is shown in this list. Generally, we used the first of his Maryland units.

In some instances, newspaper obituaries were used as a source for service data and burial location. In a number of cases, when the Civil War service information contained in the obituaries could not be verified by another independent source they were not included here.

POLLOCK FAMILY CEMETERY, MEXICO FARMS – Mexico Farm, west side of C&O Canal, south of Cumberland. In this family cemetery are buried a Confederate veteran and a Confederate woman spy; both members of the Pollock family. James Dickson Pollock traveled to Romney, West Virginia, to enlist in the Confederate Army at age twenty. He was briefly captured at Moorefield, West Virginia, on December 3, 1862, and again during the Battle of Gettysburg on July 3, 1863. He was exchanged at Cox's Landing on the James River February 15, 1865. He received the Confederate Cross of Honor from the Daughters of the Confederacy. His grave was originally marked by a worn handmade gravestone. The Cumberland Historic Cemetery Organization installed the present gravestone and ledger crypt on which the below inscription is inscribed.

“...THIS GRAVE IS/ DESIGNATED AND/ PROTECTED BY THE/ CUMBERLAND HISTORIC/ CEMETERY ORGANIZATION (ledger marker at base of grave): THIS CRYPT WAS INSTALLED BY THE CUMBERLAND/ HISTORIC CEMETERY ORGANIZATION. ROSE HILL CEMETERY, CUMBERLAND – 535 Fayette Street, west of the intersection with Cumberland Street.

In 1895 a monument was placed to honor the Union soldiers buried at Rose Hill Cemetery and in 1912 a stone shaft monument was placed to honor the Confederate soldiers buried here. Also buried here in a family vault is Jesse Korn (1809-1888) who though not a veteran suffered great financial suffering during the war when Confederate soldiers confiscated twenty of his boats to build a pontoon bridge across the Potomac, after which they were burned. Josiah H. Gordon who was arrested by Federal troops as a secessionist and imprisoned at Fort Warren, Massachusetts, is also buried here. Here too is buried Merwin McKaig a supporter of the Confederacy (see William Wallace McKaig below, a relative). There is an unusual government marker for L.C. Dawson. Instead of the shield it has a square background and the date 1892. It is uncertain if he is a veteran or perhaps a gravestone for his wife. There is only one L.C. Dawson in NPS database and he was a Confederate – this grave has a Union marker. There are three government gravestones that are indecipherable. There is a fourth military gravestone where it can be deciphered that a sergeant served in Company H in the New York Infantry but the name cannot

Also interred here are the remains of three additional Confederate soldiers (one unknown) two of whom died at the Battle of Folck's Mill, August 1, 1864, when Confederate cavalry attempted to disrupt the B&O Railroad near Cumberland but were ambushed by Union troops causing the Confederates to withdraw. The citizens of Cumberland were in a panic as this same force had just burnt Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, on July 31. Over 200 citizens volunteered to defend Cumberland. This skirmish known as the "Battle of Folck's Mill" was the largest engagement in Allegany County during the Civil War.

UNION SOLDIERS' MONUMENT. This monument (section 38), installed in 1895, was sponsored by citizens of Allegany County and the Cumberland Women's Relief Corps. It honors the men of Allegany County who fought for the Union. It consists of a bronze statue of a Union soldier holding his musket before him. The statue was cast by American Bronze Company of Chicago and was dedicated on Memorial Day, 1895.

ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY

ANNAPOLIS near mouth of Severn River, just east of John Hanson Highway (US Route 50 and 301) (National Historic District). During the Civil War, Annapolis was the site of a Union training and recruiting center. Despite the government's best efforts to keep the camps sanitary, a large number of men died due to illnesses such as smallpox and typhoid, as well as accidents and violence. As a result, most original interments at the Annapolis National Cemetery were men who died at the training camps or nearby hospitals. Annapolis also had a role in the exchange of prisoners. Confederate prisoners were held at Annapolis while arrangements were negotiated. Conversely, Union soldiers held by the Confederacy were often moved to the hospital at Camp Parole, near Annapolis, after their release.

Annapolis National Cemetery – 800 West Street, at Westgate Circle. This is one of the original 14 national cemeteries authorized by the Federal government in 1862. The first burials were placed here in the same year. At least 2,482 veterans are buried in this 4.1-acre cemetery. Two hundred and eleven are unknown, mostly found in the front rows of sections H-M, forming an "Avenue of the Unknowns." Of these unknown, 209 were U.S. soldiers, one a Confederate soldier and one who it is unknown on which side he served. The front row of Section N is the Memorial Area where cenotaph markers are placed in memory of veterans whose remains are not interred here. Most of the gravestones are numbered which was the custom during the first years of the war. Among the Civil War veterans buried here are at least 24 men who were former Confederate POWs who died while in captivity. Only three of their gravestone have the distinct peaked gravestone top designating a Confederate burial. There are several private gravestones, all but one for Civil War veterans. The John Settle gravestone is well worth viewing because of the military and patriotic symbols including crossed muskets, star, 2 flags and leaves engraved into the gravestone design. Buried here are also nurses who tended to wounded Union soldiers. It is probable that Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, tended to a number of the wounded who died and are buried here.

The gravestones of Hole, Luce, Ross, Franklin Smith, George Smith, Snowden, and Stevenson have "SP AM WAR" (Spanish-American War) engraved on them but the dates of death are given as 1862, 1864 or 1865 and are believed to be mistakes made by the engraver. Similarly, Franklin Smith's gravestone is clearly identified as a member of the "CLD INF" (Colored Infantry) who died in 1906 but is marked "SP AM WAR." Mitchell is also probably a Civil War veteran – not Spanish-American War. There are several gravemarkers for US Colored Troops and some marked unknown. Coxswain Thomas Jones (U.S.N.; died December 11, 1892) is reported to be buried here but he is not listed on the cemetery inventory. Alfred Thayer Mahan, perhaps best known for his book The Influence of Sea Power Upon History, 1660-1783, is reported to be buried here according to the popular website Find A Grave. However no marker for him has been found and the grave locator located near the entrance to the cemetery does not include his name.

Graven in Stone - this inventory is provided as a service to genealogists, historians and relatives of veterans listed in this work. This work may not be used for any commercial purpose without the express written permission from Eshelman and Rawlinson.

Near the front gate is a plaque for the Gettysburg Address and one for the poem "The Bivouac of the Dead" by Theodore O'Hara.

Battery George Sykes is one of two batteries built at the Spanish-American War era Fort Smallwood. This battery is named for George Sykes's (1820-1880) for his distinguished combat service in the Seminole, Mexican and Civil Wars. A Delaware native and graduate of West Pointer (1842) he was known in the regular army as "Tardy George." During the Civil War he served as captain of the 3rd Infantry (since September 30, 1855); major, 14th Infantry (May 14, 1861); commanding Reserve Infantry Brigade, Army of the Potomac (August 1861-March 13, 1862); commanding Infantry Reserve, Army of the Potomac (March 13 - May 1862); commanding 2nd Division, 5th Corps, Army of the Potomac (March 18 - December 1862 and January - June 28, 1863); commanding the Corps (February 1-5, 16-23, and June 28 - October 7, 1863 and October 15, 1863 - March 23, 1865); lieutenant colonel, 5th Infantry (October 16, 1863); and commanding District of South Kansas, Department of Kansas (September 1 - October 10, 1864). At 1st Bull Run he commanded the only regular army infantry on the field, an eight-company battalion from various regiments, and was highly effective in slowing the rout of the volunteers. He served at 2nd Bull Run, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. However, during the Bristoe and Mine Run campaigns in Virginia he behaved true to his nickname and was removed from a corps command in the Army of the Potomac during the spring 1864 reorganization.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, ANNAPOLIS – College Avenue, north of State Circle. Historic college founded 1696 as King William's School. McDowell Hall, the oldest building on the campus was began in 1742 as a house for the colonial governor, Thomas Bladen. When the legislature refused to vote more funds for its completion, the empty shell became known as "Bladen's Folly." It was given to St. John's College in 1784 and became the first classroom building when the college opened in 1789, named for St. John's first president, John McDowell. The building suffered a severe fire in 1909 destroying much of the front of the building. The interior was restored in 1989. During the Civil War one of the buildings at the college, probably McDowell Hall, but it could also be a building no longer extant, was used as a hospital. Charles H. Austin, was a private in Company E, 14th New York Volunteer Heavy Artillery Regiment. He was captured on July 30, 1864, at the Battle of the Crater at Petersburg, Virginia, and sent to Danville Prison in Danville, Virginia. Austin was released on February 21, 1865, and taken to hospital ward 18 at St. John's College for recovery from his ordeal.

UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY – south side of Severn River, east Annapolis. (National Historic Landmark). During the Civil War the Naval Academy operated in Newport, Rhode Island, safely behind the fighting of the theater of war. The Naval Academy has numerous exhibits, monuments, and war relics related to the American Civil War. The first superintendent of the Academy was Gen. Franklin Buchanan, a Baltimorean. At the beginning of the Civil he tendered his resignation and became a captain in the Confederate Navy. Buchanan commanded the C.S.S. Virginia (formerly U.S.S. Merrimack) where he was wounded and unable to command his vessel the following day against the U.S.S. Monitor. He fought in the Battle of Mobile Bay (August 1864) where he was captured.

On the night of October 27-28, 1864, Cushing and a small crew took a small Navy steam launch upriver to Plymouth, North Carolina, where they attacked and sank the Confederate ironclad ram C.S.S. Albemarle with a spar torpedo. This action made him a national celebrity, and he was quickly promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander and given an audience with President Lincoln. In January 1865, Cushing helped lead the Navy landing force in the conquest of Fort Fisher, North Carolina, again distinguishing himself. Four US Navy ships were named for him. His brother Lt. ## BALTIMORE CITY

Baltimore City, head of Patapsco River, area around intersection of Baltimore-Washington Boulevard-Bel Air Road [US Route 1] and Pulaski Highway [US Route 40]). Baltimore was a key transportation center during the war serving as a major port city and home of the B&O railroad. This and its proximity to Washington made Baltimore a center for military camps, prison camps, forts and hospitals. Twenty-two churches, hotels, and cotton and tobacco warehouses were turned into temporary hospital facilities. Public parks such as Druid Hill, Federal Hill and Paterson Park became locations for hospitals.

During the war Baltimore harbored, as did much of southern and eastern Maryland, many pro-Southern sympathizers. The first public display of the secession movement in Baltimore was on November 26, 1860, when two Palmetto or South Carolina flags were unfurled. One was displayed by members of a branch of the Association of Southern Volunteers. When news of the war was received groups for and against secession exchanged insults. On April 14, 1861 a secession flag was displayed from the mizzen topmast of the bark Fanny Crenshaw owned by two men from Richmond, Virginia, anchored off Fells Point. Captains of other nearby vessels hoisted up the National flag. A crowd gathered on Chase's Wharf and demanded the secession flag be taken down. On April 18 a secession flag was flown from Federal Hill and a cannon began firing 100 shots in honor of South Carolina or secession of Virginia the day before. Unionist seized the cannon on the third fire, broke up the gun carriage, tossed the powder in water and shredded the flag. Another secessionist crowd raised a Confederate flag later that afternoon at the intersection of Greenmount Avenue and Chase Street.

But the most significant incident occurred the same day when it was announced that 600 Union soldiers would pass through Baltimore on their way south. Secessionist regarded this as an "invasion of the soil of Maryland." Upon soldiers arrival a mob jostled, pushed, and even spit on the troops as they transferred from Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad's President Street Station and the B&O Railroad's Camden Station ten blocks to the west. The city police did their best to keep peace. But the next day, April 19, when 1,200 Union soldiers from Massachusetts and another 1,000 volunteers from Philadelphia passed through the city, the protest escalated resulting in the war's first casualties. A crowd estimated to be 800 people began to tear up an estimated fifty-yard section of Pratt Street, placing paver stones and even curb stones in a mound in the road to prohibit passage. About eight anchors were taken off ships and placed over the rail tracks. When the troops began to exit their cars to form up and march between the stations, the crowd swelled to over 2,000 persons on President Street. They hissed and jeered the soldiers. The police did their best to separate the mob from the troops. A group of secessionist carrying a sympathetic flag gathered at the head of the Union column. Some of the troops tried to seize the flag and the mob began to throw stones into the ranks. One soldier from Massachusetts was hit in the back of the head by a paving stone, fell, was beaten by the mob and his musket seized. The troops were ordered to run but two more soldiers were knocked to the ground and their muskets taken but the police were able to reprocess them. As they approached the torn up section of Pratt Street the numbers of missiles hurled on the troops caused the commanding officer to order his men to fire on the mob, several of whom were killed or wounded. One citizen rushed the column, seized a musket that failed to fire, and plunged the bayonet nearly through the soldier who fired on him. With fixed bayonets the column moved through the mob. One soldier was shot in the neck. Another volley was fired and one or two more citizens were wounded. About 3 p.m. the renowned 7th Regiment arrived at Baltimore and now the crowd had swelled to eight or ten thousand people. The same rioting occurred. Twelve citizens were killed and at least four wounded. Four soldiers were killed and 35 wounded. The dead were placed in the mausoleum at Green Mount Cemetery until final burial. Even after the soldiers had left the city, some of the mob broke into stores and stole firearms. Maryland Governor Thomas H. Hicks called out the military throughout the city who along with the police were placed on guard to suppress any riotous demonstrations.

“A collision between the citizens and the Northern troops has taken place in Baltimore, and the excitement is fearful. Send no troops here. We will endeavor to present all bloodshed. A public meeting of citizens has been called, and the troops of the State have been called out to preserve the peace” (Governor Thomas H. Hicks and Baltimore Mayor George William Brown, to President Abraham Lincoln, April 19, 1861).

Lincoln ordered troops to be rerouted through Union-friendly Annapolis until enough troops had made it to Washington, D.C. to adequately defend the capital. On May 13, the Union army entered Baltimore, occupied the city, and declared martial law. The mayor, city council, and police commissioner, who were pro-South and seemingly incompetent at maintaining order in the situation, were arrested and imprisoned at Fort McHenry. James Ryder Randall, a teacher in Louisiana but a native Marylander who had lost a friend in the riots, wrote Maryland, My Maryland for the Southern cause in response to the riots. The poem was later set to music popular in the South, and referred to the riots with lines such as "Avenge the patriotic gore / That flecked the streets of Baltimore." Seventy-eight years later it became Maryland's state song.

After the occupation of the city, Union troops were garrisoned throughout the state. Several members of the Maryland legislature were arrested, days before a delayed secession vote, and the state was placed under direct federal administration.

After the war there were several monuments erected in Baltimore. Among them is the Confederate Soldiers and Sailors Monument at West Mount Royal Avenue near Mosher Street, donated by the Maryland Daughters of the Confederacy and erected in 1902. It was sculpted by F. Wellington Ruskstuhl. The bronze statue shows a winged Glory supporting a fallen soldier, his standard lowered but her wreath held high. The Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument was erected by the state of Maryland as the state's official Civil War monument in 1909 at Wyman Park North Charles and 29th Streets. It was designed by Adolph Alexander Weinman. It depicts three bronze figures. The central figure represents a farmer dressed in his uniform who turned his plow and anvil, shown behind him and to his left, into a buckle on his uniform belt. He is attended by Victory on his right and Bellona, goddess of war, on his left. Nearby also in Wyman Park is the Lee and Jackson Monument, sculpted by Laura Gardin Fraser and erected in 1948. It depicts Robert E. Lee and Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson on horseback. There is also the Confederate Women's Monument located at North Charles Street and University Parkway. It was donated by the Daughters of the Confederacy, United Confederate Veterans, and the State of Maryland. Sculpted by J. Maxwell Miller it depicts in bronze two women assisting a fallen soldier. Finally, the little-known monument to Sidney Lanier, is located on North Charles Street, near University Parkway, on the Johns Hopkins University campus. Lanier was a poet, tutor, soldier, lecturer, clerk, scholar, linguist, novelist and musician. He volunteered in the Confederate Army, and was captured and imprisoned at Camp Point Lookout.

A Baltimore City Commission was established to consider the political correctness of these statues. On February 27, 2017 they recommended that the Robert E. Lee and Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson Monument be removed as well as a second monument to Roger B. Taney author of the Dred Scott decision that barred citizenship for black people. It is currently unclear if their recommendation will be carried out but as late as June 2017 the removal was still under consideration as well as possibly also the Confederate sailors and soldiers monument, a monument to Confederate women.

FORT McHENRY NATIONAL MONUMENT & HISTORIC SHRINE – confluence of Northwest Harbor and Middle Branch, Patapsco River, east end of Fort Avenue, Locust Point.
Fort McHenry, a National Historic Landmark, originally named Fort Whetstone in 1776 for the point it is located on, was named in 1798 after James McHenry, then secretary of war. The 1806 brick, stone and earthen five star-shaped fort (the five points are actually bastions, not salients usually associated with true star forts) controlled the entrances to both the Northwest Branch and the Ferry Branch of the Patapsco River and thus served as the cornerstone of the water defenses of Baltimore. The present fort configuration dates from the late 1830's, but the big Rodman cannons are Civil War era artillery.

Fort McHenry served as a temporary federal prison for southern sympathizers and Confederate soldiers during the Civil War. During the summer of 1863 the prison became overcrowded after 6,795 Confederate soldiers from the Battle of Gettysburg were placed here. Although death rates at Fort McHenry were lower than other Union prison facilities, eighty-eight known Confederate soldiers died here either from wounds, sickness, and two due to military executions. The low mortality rate is largely due to the relatively short internment of prisoners before being transferred to more permanent retention sites such as Point Lookout Military Prison in St. Mary's County, Maryland and Fort Delaware on the Delaware River below Philadelphia in Delaware.

“Offenders against the laws of nations...These, accused of being spies, pirates, recruiting within our lines, under sentence of death, &c., occupy two rooms in the interior of the Fort. Only a portion are in irons. The doors are open all day to admit air and light, and exercised in the interior parade is allowed for half an hour each day..." Colonel P.A. Porter, 8th New York Heavy Artillery. December 1863.

Sixty-one Union soldiers are known to have died and buried in the Post Cemetery. A total of 327 known graves including Confederate prisoners of war, U.S. soldiers and their civilian dependents (not all dating from the Civil War) were buried in this cemetery but only 150 have been identified. The cemetery was removed in June 1895. Twenty nine Confederate soldiers are known to have been reburied at Loudon Park National Cemetery (see separate listing). At least two of them, John M. Forrest and W.J. Smith, were moved on Confederate Memorial Day, June 6, 1895. Another, John McCabe was removed and sent to Richmond, Virginia, on the same day.

One sad incident was that of Private Joseph Kuhne, Co. F, 2nd Maryland Regiment, who on September 10, 1861 while his company was stationed at Camp Carroll, West Baltimore, went AWOL to visit his family. 2nd Lieutenant J. David Whitson, who already had an earlier confrontations with Kuhne, found him and attempted to arrest him. Kuhne resisted and shot Whitson dead whereupon he was arrested, taken to Fort McHenry, court-martialed, found guilty and sentenced to be hung by the neck until dead. On March 7, 1862 some 6,000 Union soldiers from all over Baltimore formed a hollow square around the gallows while outside the fort gates hundreds of civilians viewed the solemn spectacle. Kune was cut down and placed in charge of a Baltimore undertaken, John H. Weaver who transported the remains to Mount Carmel Cemetery, Baltimore. No record of him at Mount Carmel Cemetery was found.

Similarly, Sgt. George M. McDonald alias M.M. Dunning (1826-1864) was sentenced to death for deserting the Maryland Volunteer Cavalry and for discharging a deadly weapon with the intent to kill three members of the United States Army while resisting arrest. McDonald was blindfolded and executed by a twelve man firing squad standing twelve paces in front of him on the parade grounds of the fort. Twelve hundred soldiers formed on three sides of the condemned man. The body was removed by slow march to the post cemetery during which muffled drums played the "Dead March." McDonald was reputedly buried at the National Cemetery, Loudon Park, Baltimore.

GREEN MOUNT CEMETERY – 1501 Green Mount Avenue, south of the intersection with North Avenue (U.S. Route 1) (National Register of Historic Places). Green Mount Cemetery was established in 1837 on the estate of Robert Oliver located on a hill overlooking Baltimore. The cemetery was laid out by Benjamin H. Latrobe. Here also are buried seven generals who fought for the Union side and eight generals who fought for the Confederacy. Among them was John Henry Winder who was in charge of Confederate prisons including the infamous Andersonville Prison, and John Reese Kenly the highest ranking Marylander in the Union Army. Adm. Cadwallader Ringgold of the U.S.N. in command of the frigate U.S.S. Sabine during the Civil War affected the rescue of a battalion of Marines whose transport steamer had gone inshore and also the ship of the line Vermont which had lost her rudder in a storm. William D. Brown, a Confederate soldier killed at Gettysburg is buried here. During his funeral male members of the mourning family were arrested by Union soldiers. Col. Lewis B. Williams was wounded at the Battle of Williamsburg and captured May 5, 1862, exchanged and thrown from his horse landing on his sword mortally wounded during Picket’s Charge at Gettysburg, July 3, 1863. Also here is John Work Garrett (1820-1884), president of the B&O Railroad, whose loyalty to the Union was essential to success of the war. Garrett County is named for him.

John Wilkes Booth (1838-1865) grave (Area Dogwood, lot 9-10) is unmarked but he is believed to be buried just south of the seven-foot marble shaft which marks the grave of his parents, Junius Brutus and Mary Ann Booth, and his second wife. John Wilkes Booth was first buried at the Federal Arsenal near the Navy Yard in Washington, D.C. but in 1869 upon an appeal by his mother and sister he was reburied in an undertakers vault in Baltimore and finally on June 6 of the same year buried here. The grave was not marked to prevent plundering. Samuel Bland Arnold and Michael O’Laughlin, two other conspirators, are also buried here. Sebastian F. Streeter, who died in Baltimore in August 1864, has inscribed on his gravestone “We honor his devotion to the Union of the United States.”

“CONFEDERATE HILL,” AREA V, LOUDON PARK CEMETERY

Doug Rawlinson

CONFEDERATE HILL – here are buried Confederate soldiers who died in Baltimore hospitals during the Civil War, or were brought here from nearby battlefields. The Sanitary Commission chose a portion of Loudon Park cemetery for the burial of soldiers in late 1861. The first Confederates were buried here in May 1862 when burial plots are believed to have been donated by Southern sympathetic deed owners. Later, lots were traded so that all the Confederates were united in one section on a hill. By the close of the war over two hundred soldiers were buried on this hill. During the 1870's, additional Maryland soldiers were brought here from battlefields in the South; and later veterans wishing to rest among their comrades were also buried here. Today there are 650 graves located on what has become known as Confederate Hill. Overlooking these graves serving vigil over these dead is a 1870 statue of a Confederate officer sculpted by Baltimorean Frederick Volck who served in the Confederate Naval Ordnance and Hydrography Department. On the back of the statue is inscribed "F. Volck". Some refer to this as the "Stonewall" Jackson Monument while others believe it resembles Robert E. Lee. Confederate Hill was restored in the 1950s by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

In 1874 the Maryland Legislature appropriated $5,000 for the removal of Maryland dead from Virginia battlefields for interment on Confederate Hill. These funds were insufficient to pay for appropriate grave markers so for years during the annual Confederate Memorial Day when the remains of veterans were reinterred funds were raised by those attending the services. During the June 10, 1874, Confederate Memorial Day service a "procession after reaching the place of burial marched around the lots, and after forming around the newly made graves in which the remains had already been deposited, but not filled up, the funeral services took place...The lots containing the Confederate dead have been enclosed with a substantial granite curbing, and the graves put in good condition. The remains of 247 persons are buried in the enclosure, most of whom are known." Confederate veterans from the Confederate Home were among the principal participants. In 1910, 68 were in attendance. Many made their last trip to Confederate Hill in a passenger car converted to a funeral street car named "Delores". It was outfitted with a side-loading door for the coffin and could be rented for $20.00 including conductor and motor man. Among them is John Rodgers (1850-1921) who joined the army at age 12 and fought in 14 battles and 23 skirmishes. John Francis Key, grandson of Francis Scott Key, entered the Confederate Veterans Home on July 3, 1894, and died August 2, 1920, aged 92, the oldest resident at that time. Also buried here is Col. Hobart Aisquith of the 1st Maryland Cavalry who died in August 1937 at City Hospital at age 92. He was the last survivor of the Confederate Veterans Home in Pikesville which closed in 1932. Sgt. Maj. Elijah Tarlton Russell, Company H, 1st Maryland Infantry, C.S.A., was killed at Battle of Cedar Creek, Virginia, October 1864 and is buried in Lot E38 but his gravestone is undecipherable. William A. Wilkinson (1832-July 9, 1864) died of wounds received at Cold Harbor, Virginia. He was buried at Oakwood Cemetery, Richmond, but was re-interred here; his gravestone is undecipherable.

JOHNSON, JANE CLAUDIA (SAUNDERS), is the only woman so memorialized on Confederate Hill. She was the debutante daughter of an ambassador to Spain. Jane brought material comfort and cheer to the sick. She also obtained arms, ammunition and clothing for her husband's regiment. She later became President of the Board of Visitors at the Confederate Veterans Home in Pikesville. Her monument is inscribed: In memory of a Noble Woman.

APRIL 19, 1861

William R. Clark was a fireman in Baltimore. He was one of 11 Baltimoreans killed by Massachusetts troops during the Baltimore riot of April 19, 1861. Since Clark had enlisted in a South Carolina unit several days before the 19th, but had not yet gone south, he is considered by many to be the first Confederate soldier to be killed in the war. His funeral was held in Baltimore on April 21, 1861. However, after extensive searches failed to locate his final resting place, this monument was erected in

LOUDON PARK NATIONAL CEMETERY – 3445 Frederick Avenue. Loudon Park National Cemetery, originally a military cemetery located within the private Loudon Park Cemetery, is one of the 14 original national cemeteries established under the National Cemetery Act of July 17, 1862. The first veteran burials here took place a year earlier in 1861. The national cemetery has 2,300 Union and 700 Confederate burials as well as later war veterans and their spouses. Today over 7,000 veterans are buried in this 5.2-acre cemetery. Most of the original interments came from Baltimore hospitals, as well as the Relay House and Elkridge Landing. The Relay House was a popular hotel for B&O passengers in the 19th-century mainline route. Union regiments occupied the town of Relay beginning in May 1861. The Relay House became the headquarters for Union officers and enlisted men stationed in the area to protect the railroad from Confederate saboteurs. Elkridge Landing was another important Maryland transportation center at risk of enemy occupation or destruction during the war. Not only was Elkridge Landing a deep-water port in use since the Colonial period, but the Annapolis and Elkridge Railroad ran through it as a vital link to the B&O, iron mines and furnaces.

Nearby, Fort McHenry (see separate listing) served as a prison camp for Confederate soldiers and Southern sympathizers during the war. In summer 1863, the prison became overcrowded after nearly 7,000 POWs from the Battle of Gettysburg were brought there. Many of the Confederate soldiers who died while imprisoned there were buried at Loudon Park National Cemetery. Others were buried in the Post Cemetery at the fort and later reinterred at other cemeteries. In addition, approximately 299 remains from the soldiers' lots in Laurel Cemetery, Maryland, were reinterred at Loudon in 1884. A report from the inspector of national cemeteries in 1871 cites 1,789 total interments; among them 139 "Rebel Soldiers, Prisoners of War" who died at Fort McHenry. The original five cemetery acres grew through a series of land acquisitions in 1874, 1875, 1882, 1883 and 1903. Many of lot owners traded locations within the cemetery so the Confederate veterans could be buried together in what became known as "Confederate Hill".

The Dodge Post Statue (Grant Army of the Republic Monument) dedicated in 1896, the Loyal Sons of Maryland Naval Monument dedicated in 1896, the Sons of Maryland Monument dedicated in 1884, and the Unknown Dead Monument dedicated in 1895 are all located in the National Cemetery. Here in Loudon Park Cemetery are 230 black Civil War veterans reinterred from their original burial place at Laurel Hill Cemetery, now dissolved (see Laurel Hill Cemetery listing under Baltimore). Here are also located the Confederate Dead Monument dedicated in 1870, the Confederate Mothers and Widows Monument dedicated in 1906, the Confederate Women Monument dedicated in 1913, the Johnson Monument dedicated in 1901 and 1903, the Murray Association Monument, and the Confederate Prisoner of War Monument dedicated in 1912.

Into the 20th century a Union army sergeant was stationed in a nearby cottage to oversee the cemetery. Any Confederate flags placed on the graves are removed as this is a U.S. National Cemetery.

Examples of burials in the National Cemetery include:

Fort McHenry Confederate Prisoner of War Monument, erected about 1912, is also known simply as the Fort McHenry Monument. It marks the burial place of Confederate soldiers who died while imprisoned in Fort Henry during the Civil War and were re-interred at Loudon Park National Cemetery in 1895. Although 136 Confederates were

THE LOYAL SONS MONUMENT is among the most historically significant monuments in the National Cemetery Administration. Dedicated on Memorial Day, May 30, 1885, the monument was commissioned by the Loyal Women of Maryland and paid for out of remaining funds donated by the Sanitary Commission, Union Orphan Asylum and Maryland Soldiers' Home. The monument contains a remarkable three-foot-tall terra cotta frieze with a base relief sculpture replicated from the frieze that adorns the Pension Building (now National Building Museum) in Washington, D.C. In 1884, General Montgomery Meigs, who designed the Pension Building, permitted Colonel Alexander Bliss "to take impressions for the terra-cotta representations from the [frieze] design in the new Pension Office." Caspar Burberl, a Bohemian-born sculptor who immigrated to New York, created the Pension Building frieze. The monument frieze depicts four war scenes: "The General Taking Command of His Forces," "The Battle Scene", "The Wounded After Battle" and "Peace".

THE RIGBY MONUMENT is made of marble and was erected in 1891 as a tribute to Captain James H. Rigby, Battery A, 1 Maryland Light Artillery, by the survivors of his battery, family members and friends. The battery was attached to the U.S. Volunteer Artillery Reserve, 6th, 12th and 5th Army Corps, which saw action at Gettysburg and other engagements in Maryland and Virginia. Of the 150 original members of the battery, Private Lipscomb's date of capture at Ream's Station is from his service record. That record and data from Point Lookout both state that he died at the prisoner of war camp, but neither provided a date of death. This information conflicts with the September 30 date of death reported in his newspaper obituary of October 8, 1864 and shown on his tombstone.

PATRICK MULLIN

LANDSMAN, U.S.S. WYANDANK

Awarded two Medals of Honor. First medal awarded 22 June 1865. First award citation reads: “Served as boatswain's mate on board the U.S.S. Wyandank during a boat expedition up Mattox Creek, 17 March 1865. Rendering gallant assistance to his commanding officer, Mullen, lying on his back, loaded the howitzer and then fired so carefully as to kill and wound many rebels, causing their retreat.” Second award citation reads: “Served as boatswain's mate on board the U.S.S. Don, 1 May 1865. Engaged in picking up the crew of picket launch No. 6, which had swamped. Mullen, seeing an officer who was at that time no longer able to keep up and was below the surface of the water, jumped overboard and brought the officer to the boat, thereby rescuing him from drowning, which brave action entitled him to wear a bar on the medal he had already received at Mattox Creek, 17 March 1865.”

SURRATT, JOHN HARRISON, Confederate Secret Service, C.S.A., DOD 1916, Area J – son of Mary Surratt and the longest living Lincoln assassination conspirator. He served as courier for Confederate forces through much of the war, later being introduced to John Wilkes Booth. His actual involvement is clouded in speculation, but it is clear that he was at least peripherally involved in plots to kidnap and/or kill President Lincoln. He fled to Canada after the President was shot, and was there hiding when his mother was executed for her alleged involvement. He was later captured in Egypt. John Harrison was tried in a civil court but the trial ended in deadlock. He spent much of the rest of life as a school teacher occasionally giving lectures on his role in the plots.

This property was originally a federal arsenal built soon after the War of 1812. The home opened with seven men in 1880 and served over 460 veterans over its 44 years of operation. While most were veterans of the Confederate Army at least two were from the Secret Service and several served in the Confederate Navy. Brig. Gen. Lucius B. Northrop, Commissary General of the Confederacy, was the highest ranking officer. While most of the veterans entered the home in their 60s and 70s, one was only 46 years old and the oldest 90. Hobart Aisquith, who died in 1937 at age 92, was among the last three soldiers at the Confederate Veterans Home which closed in 1932. Aisquith is buried at Loudon Park (see Loudon Park listing under Baltimore). Jane Claudia (Saunders) Johnson became President of the Board of Visitors at the Confederate Veterans Home. She is the only woman memorialized on Confederate Hill (see also Confederate Hill listing under Loudon Park under Baltimore). The veterans of this home made an annual pilgrimage to Confederate Hill each Confederate Memorial Day in June to pay homage to their fellow soldiers. Four veterans of the Confederate Veterans Home, J.T. Fenal, James Price, J.C. Snowden and William H. Yerby, received the Southern Cross of Honor from the United Daughters of the Confederacy in 1908.

Saint James Church was erected in 1750-1755, enlarged in 1759-1762 and parish erected in 1770. Capt. James Calder Turner, a Confederate veteran and Col. Dixon Stansbury Miles, a Union veteran, are buried here. Dixon Stansbury Miles was a veteran of the Indian Wars, the Mexican War, and the Civil War. Miles fought in the Seminole Indian War from 1839 to 1842. During the Mexican War he defended Fort Brown, Texas, and fought at the Battle of Monterey and the Siege of Vera Cruz. In the summer of 1857 he led forces against the Indians along the Gila River, New Mexico, and in 1858 against the Navajo. During the Civil War he was in command of division held in reserve at Battle of First Bull Run, Virginia. He was accused of drunkenness during that battle and subsequently given command of a brigade to defend the B&O Railroad and then in September 1862 the defense of Harpers Ferry, West Virginia. Threatened during Gen. Robert E. Lee's Maryland Campaign he called for reinforcements, which never came. Despite being ordered to hold at all costs, Gen. Stonewall Jackson compelled Miles to withdraw his forces from Maryland Heights overlooking the town. Miles capitulated his 11,500 troops at Harpers Ferry, the largest surrender of United States Army troops until the fall of Corregidor in World War II. During the surrender, supposedly while waving a white flag, he was mortally wounded by an artillery shell.

This “Chapel of Ease” was authorized in 1742; a copy of the Act is located in the Parish House. The oldest section of the church dates from 1743 with the north and south transepts added in 1891. The church was restored in 1970. In the graveyard are buried at least 29 Civil War veterans including Hetty Cary Martin who married Brig. Gen. John Pegram C.S.A. Each year a distant cousin from New York places a Confederate flag on Hetty’s grave in tribute to her southern sympathies during the Civil War. Hetty, her sister Jenny and cousin Constance, smuggled supplies, sewed flags and uniforms and nursed the wounded. They made several dangerous trips between the Union and Confederate lines, once crossing the Potomac River from Blackistone Island [now St. Clement’s Island] “passing with muffled oars in the dark within gun shot of the U.S. Man of War ‘Pawnee.’” Hetty, said to be the most beautiful woman in Baltimore, met and married John Pegram during one of these forays into Virginia. President Davis loaned his private carriage for their wedding. Pegram was killed in battle and buried three weeks to the day after the wedding.

BROOKS UNITED METHODIST CHURCH CEMETERY – 5550 Mackall Road Maryland Route 265) south of the intersection with Broomes Island Road (Maryland Route 264).

This church was founded in the 1840s but the first church building was not erected until around 1864. The cemetery of Brooks United Methodist Church is bordered on the north by the cemetery of the historically white Waters Memorial United Methodist Church. At Brooks are buried at least four African-American veterans of the Civil War who gained their freedom by enlisting in the Union Army during the war after "Abe Lincoln put out the call." Albert Gantt joined the 2nd Regiment of U.S. Colored Light Artillery, Battery B, Fort Monroe, Virginia on February 12, 1864, to escape bondage from Dr. John C. Parker. Albert fought in major battles around Petersburg, Virginia, and was wounded at Chickahominy Swamp when his horse was shot under him and in falling he fractured his leg. Gantt was honorably discharged in Brownsville, Texas in April of 1866. Returning to Maryland he worked as a shipping clerk in the port of Baltimore and was able to save enough money to buy a house and farm off Laveille Road, in nearby Mutual. His late 18th-century house was later owned by his son McKinley as late as 1973. According to family history Albert first saw the house when as a slave coachman he frequently drove his owner, Dr. Parker, there to visit. Parker owned at least one other slave, Lemuel Hance, who joined the 7th Company of the 19th Regiment of United States Colored Troops. It is unknown where Hance is buried. Gantt is buried next to his wife Aleatha. Albert Gantt was often a featured speaker at public commemorations of African American's contributions to the Union victory.

HARROD, JAMES, Private, gravestone (military) inscription: JAS. HARROD/ CO. K. / 29 U.S.C.I. – enlisted at Camp Stanton, Benedict, Maryland

KELL, BASIL, Corporal gravestone inscription: (Masonic emblem)/ BASIL KELL./ DIED MAY 24' 1897/ AGED 64 YEARS/ – / ASLEEP IN JESUS BLESSED SLEEP (footstone) B.K. Mustered in at Camp Stanton, Benedict, October 21, 1863, promoted to corporal December 9, 1863, wounded in his right side resulting in a hernia; twice wounded at Fort Gilmore (located between Petersburg and Richmond, Virginia) on September 29, 1864, first by a shell fragment through his right foot and second by a minie ball through his right hip and side; found unfit for duty and discharged September 15, 1865; mustered out from the army in Indianola, Texas, October 1866; his widow Caroline received a pension after he died in Calvert County of intestinal blockage in May 24, 1897.

BROWN'S CHURCH CEMETERY, PORT REPUBLIC – east side of Parker's Creek Road, north of intersection with Wash Hance Road.

At least one veteran of the Civil War is buried here, Joseph H. Wallace, who served in Co. D 39th Regt. U.S.C.T. He enrolled in Calvert County in March, 1864, was promoted to corporal in August, 1865. The Company Descriptive Book notes that Wallace "has been a faithful soldier. A good soldier, never sick nor absent." Evidently the wound he sustained on cemetery hill near Petersburg did not keep him from duty. He returned to Calvert County and invested much of his money in real estate, acquiring over three hundred acres before his death in 1909.

DENTON – east side of the Choptank River, essentially the area around the intersection of Hillsboro-Denton-Bridgeville Road (Maryland Route 404) and Denton Greensboro Road (Maryland Route 313). Mrs. Rebecca Satterthwaite Tylor, originally of Philadelphia, moved to Denton, grand-niece of Betsy Ross who reputedly sewed a thirty-four star flag which she proudly flew from her family home now demolished but then located on the south side of Maryland Route 404 and Business Route 404 (see Tuckahoe Neck Quaker Meetinghouse where she may be buried). The Eastern Shore was strongly pro-Confederate. When a Union contingent marched by the house Rebecca reputedly flew her great niece's flag. The commander halted his unit and greeted her stating this was the first Union flag they had seen since they entered the region. He then ordered the band to play a salute before they passed on. Tradition holds that Rebecca learned her sewing skills from Betsy Ross herself when she lived in Philadelphia with her family before marrying. The flag still survives with descendants of the family. The legend of Betsy Ross is heavily disputed.

worth viewing at the Fisher family plot: "Beal, a faithful slave, his resting place is marked by one who loved him dearly"

Five veterans (Orville Andrews, Malachi Buckly, Robert Clark, William Frazer, and Ernest Kohler) are buried in a single lot thanks to the efforts of Mary Bostwick Shellman. On June 30, 1863, at age fourteen, Mary administered assistance to a dying soldier at Westminster's McAllen Hotel. At age eighteen she organized Westminster's first Decoration Day observance which consisted of a children's parade to the Westminster Cemetery where flowers were laid on soldiers' graves. She also was active in the Women's Relief Corps, an auxiliary of the G.A.R. When Mary learned of Civil War veterans who died in Westminster that did not have family she made sure they got a proper burial, not a pauper burial. Two of the five buried in her lot received Government Issued markers; two others are private markers but it is unclear who paid for them. The fifth individual, Kohler, was buried here but his grave is unmarked because he was considered a deserter. A new Government Issued gravemarker was paid for and installed by the Pipe Creek Civil War Round Table and dedicated on Memorial Day 2006. The lot was given to Mary in 1886 by the Westminster Cemetery Company.

CHARLES COUNTY

BENEDICT – west side of the Patuxent River, Prince Frederick-Hughesville-Hallowing Point Road (Maryland Route 231) was the site of Camp Stanton, a recruitment and mustering station for blacks. At least 35 St. Mary's County slaves served in the Union Army, two received the Medal of Honor. Pvt. Arthur Emerson, aged 25 of Worcester County, died here December 23, 1863; Pvt. Isaac Brown, aged 32, from Kent County, died here of consumption January 6, 1864.

BRENTLAND SITE – east side of Camp Road, north off Brentland Road, east off Blossom Point Road, southwest of La Plata, west side of Port Tobacco River, Charles County. Brentland was the home of the Brent family and birthplace of Brig. Gen. Joseph Lancaster Brent who served in the Mexican War and the Confederacy during the Civil War. Brent moved to Los Angeles in 1850 and joined the Confederate cause during the war. He was present at the siege of Vicksburg and as an aide to Gen. Robert E. Lee, and was present at the surrender at Appomattox Courthouse, April 8, 1865. Brent eventually returned to Maryland but the location of his grave is unknown. Brentland was located on a hill overlooking Port Tobacco River. The house burned in the 1930s. The only surviving structure from this plantation is an early 18th century pyramid-roofed meat house which was removed from Brentland to the nearby "Retreat" in 1953.

DURHAM PARISH CHURCH CEMETERY / CHRIST CHURCH DURHAM PARISH CHURCH CEMETERY, IRONSIDE – 8685 Mason Springs-Ironside Road (Maryland Route 425), south of La Plata-Doncaster Road (Maryland Route 6). This parish was established in 1692 as one of the original thirty parishes of the Church of England in the Province of Maryland. The original log church was replaced by a one-story brick structure in 1734. In 1793 the structure was raised to the present height. In 1843 the structure was again restored; its present appearance reflects this later alteration except for a bell tower built in 1942. Here are buried at least two Confederate veterans of the Civil War.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH CEMETERY, CAMBRIDGE – 601 Church Street at High Street, north of the intersection with Washington Street (Maryland Route 343). Christ Church is the site of a log structure built by the Great Choptank Parish in 1696 and rebuilt in brick in 1794 which was destroyed by a fire in 1882. The present granite structure was built in 1883. There are at least 16 Civil War veterans, representing both the Union and Confederacy, buried here.

William Henry Barton, born Oct. 27, 1839, and died January 27, 1909, entered the U.S. Naval Academy in 1856, graduated in 1860 and resigned from the Navy in 1868. He apparently served during the Civil War. At least four veterans are buried in unmarked graves: Robert Bramble, John Craig Lake (son of James Bushrod and Louisa Craig Lake, died in Virginia while in the service of the Confederacy (1845-1864) (lot O231) (of Co. A. 2nd Maryland Inf. C.S.A.), Daniel Lloyd, Jr. (lot O256) (son of Daniel and Virginia Upshur) (probably served as Pvt. 1st Bat. Maryland Art.) and Gus McCormick. All four served as Confederate soldiers and are buried here in unmarked graves. George Johnson (1831-1913) is probably Pvt. Co. A, 3rd MD Inf., but confirmation could not be established. William Sullivane Muse, a native of Dorchester County, served as an orderly sergeant in the Dorchester Guard which later became Co. A of the Eastern Shore Regiment during the Civil War. Muse helped form two companies in the First Eastern Shore Regiment but then enlisted in the U.S.N. as a paymaster yeoman. After serving picket and guard duty on the U.S.S. Zouave for 18 months he was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in 1864 in the U.S. Marine Corps and commanded the Marine Guard on the U.S.S. St. Mary's. Muse also served in the Spanish-American War. Muse retired from the U.S. Marine Corps in 1900 with the rank of colonel. The gravestones for Lloyd Bowdoin, James Winder Laird, Sgt. Thomas P. LeCompte, Lake Robinson Schleigh and Thomas H. Williams were not found despite several visits. The epitaph provided for these individuals are based on church records.

The Frederick Chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy employed parties to transfer these unknown men from unmarked graves in Maryland. A statue of a Confederate soldier resting on his rifle surmounts a pedestal. A list of the Confederate soldiers buried here is available on line.<sup>i</sup>

IN MEMORY OF/ THE YOUNG MEN FROM FREDERICK COUNTY/ WHO FOUGHT FOR SOUTHERN RIGHTS/ 1861-1865

[names follow in two rows – see Charles Lawrence Bishop, Frederick's Other City: Mount Olivet Cemetery, 2002, 35-37].

CONFEDERATE ROW (along the boundary fence line). Here is an impressive line of 282 Civil War era gravestones with new gravestones behind them. These graves represent soldiers who died while prisoners of war. They fought at the battles of South Mountain, Sharpsburg, Gettysburg and Monocacy. 168 died in 1862, 32 in 1863, 81 in 1864 and 2 in 1865. Twenty-nine are unknown soldiers. While government issued military gravestones for the Confederacy are shaped with a peaked top and Union gravestones are slightly rounded, among these Confederate graves both styles are used; possibly due to shortages during the war. For a complete list of these individuals see Charles Lawrence Bishop, Frederick's Other City: Mount Olivet Cemetery, 2002, 47-53.

BARBARA FRITCHIE/ BY JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIE

Up from the meadows rich with corn,
Clear in the cool September morn,
The clustered spires of Frederick stand
Green-walled by the hills of Maryland.
Round about them orchards sweep,
Apple and peach trees fruited deep,
Fair as the garden of the Lord
To the eyes of the famished rebel horde,
On that pleasant morn of the early fall
When Lee marched over the mountain-wall;
Over the mountains winding down,

Quick, as it fell, from the broken staff
Dame Barbara snatched the silken scarf.
She leaned far out on the window-sill,
And shook it forth with a royal will.
"Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But spare your country's flag," she said.
A shade of sadness, a blush of shame,
Over the face of the leader came;
The nobler nature within him stirred
To life at that woman's deed and word;
"Who touches a hair of yon gray head

Horse and foot, into Frederick town.
Forty flags with their silver stars,
Forty flags with their crimson bars,
Flapped in the morning wind; the sun
Of noon looked down, and saw not one.
Up rose old Barbara Fritchie then,
Bowed with her fourscore years and ten;
Bravest of all in Frederick town,
She took up the flag the men hauled down;
In her attic window the staff she set,
To show that one heart was loyal yet.
Up the street came the rebel tread,
Stonewall Jackson riding ahead.
He glanced; the old flag met his sight.
"Halt!" the dust-brown ranks stood fast,
"Fire!" out blazed the rifle-blast.
It shivered the window, pane and sash;
It rent the banner with seam and gash.

Dies like a dog! March on!" he said.
All day long through Frederick street
Sounded the tread of marching feet:
All day long that free flag tost
Over the heads of the rebel host.
Ever its torn folds rose and fell
On the loyal winds that loved it well;
And through the hill-gaps sunset light shone over it with a warm goodnight.
Barbara Fritchie's work is o'er,
and the Rebel rides on his raids no more.
Honor to her! And let a tear
Fall, for her sake, on Stonewall's bier.
Over Barbara Fritchie's grave,
Flag of Freedom and Union, wave!
Peace and order and beauty draw
Round thy symbol of light and law;
And ever the stars above look down
On thy stars below in Frederick town!

Legend claims Barbara Fritchie (1766-1862), at age 95, defiantly waved the Stars and Strips and supposedly exchanged words with Gen. Stonewall Jackson as he and his men passed through Frederick on September 10, 1862. However, an article written for The Century magazine in June, 1886, by Henry Kyd Douglas, a member of Stonewall Jackson's staff who wrote I Rode with Stonewall, states that he was with Gen. Jackson every minute while in Frederick, and that Barbara Fritchie never saw Jackson, and Jackson never set eyes on Barbara. Stonewall turned north on to Market Street before reaching Fritchie's house in order to visit the Rev. Dr. John Ross. Jackson then rejoined their column on Patrick Street, west of Fritchie's house. While this legend is considered apocryphal, it did inspire a popular patriotic poem, "Barbara Fritchie" (1864), by John Greenleaf Whittier, and a play, Barbara Fritchie (1899), by Clyde Fitch.

However, there is a documented flag waving incident from Frederick. Mary Quantrell, a Unionist in-law of the infamous Confederate raider William C. Quantrell, lived on the corner of Patrick and Mill (Bentz) Streets where she operated a private school. As the Confederate soldiers filed past her home, she, her daughter and five of her students, waved a small Union flag. An irate lieutenant snatched the flag from her grasp with his sword and flung it to the ground. As soon as the lieutenant left the daughter "Virgi" picked up the flag and resumed waving the banner. Soon after a group of enlisted men surrounded her and yanked the flag from her hand, breaking the staff and tearing the flag to pieces. Mary Quantrell replaced the torn flag with a larger one and continued to wave the colors. Fritchie was a personal friend of Francis Scott Key, both participated together in a memorial service at Frederick when George Washington died. It's likely that because Barbara Fritchie was so well known locally as a patriot, the story was attributed to her, and neither she nor her family seemed to have done anything to correct the misconception. Winston Churchill passed through Frederick in 1943, he stopped at the Fritchie House and recited the "Barbara Fritchie" poem from memory. Her house is now a museum.

UNION CIVIL WAR (section C). This section of the cemetery is interesting for several reasons. All the graves but Thomas D. Bond and Thomas Strickler were killed in battle near Frederick. Several consist of the original private gravestones located at the foot and government military gravestones at the head. The J.A. Hudson and Samuel Staub gravestones are examples of early (pre-1873) military gravestones which can be identified by their narrower and thinner appearance than the later standardized military markers. One of these has the shield while the other does not. One military marker is so worn nothing can be deciphered. On several Union military markers a complete name cannot be deciphered. Here follows what could be read:

ST. JOHN’S ROMAN CATHOLIC CEMETERY, FREDERICK the intersection of North East Street and East 4th Street, north of the intersection with East Street and East Patrick Street (Maryland Route 144). This cemetery was first used in 1832 but officially established in 1845. There are veterans from every American war buried here. Many who died of their wounds in area hospitals after the Battle of Monocacy were first buried at the old Jesuit Novitiate Graveyard established in 1805 on East Second Street and moved here when it closed in 1904. At least 24 Civil War veterans are buried here. The line of military gravestones along the east wall are nearly all deaths that occurred in the area makeshift hospitals.

A Civil War veteran marker is placed next to the grave of Charles A. Kehne but there is no record of any service in NPS database. There is also a veteran marker next to the Peter Brookey gravestone but no such individual was found in NPS database –re are two Brookey’s (J.T. and John P.) that served in the C.S.A. 2nd Maryland Battery. There is a Colonel James McSherry gravestone with no veteran marker that may be Captain James Whann McSherry, Company B 36

ST. GEORGE'S (SPESUTIA) PARISH CEMETERY, PERRYMAN – Spesutia Road at the intersection with Perryman Road (Maryland Route 159). St. George's Parish was laid out in 1693. Bricks from a 1760 structure were used to build the present structure in 1851 on the same foundation. A brick vestry house, built in 1766 and also used as a school, is believed to be one of only two original such houses in America. Here in the surrounding cemetery are buried several veterans of the Civil War including William Carnagy, Josephus Stier, Winfield Stier, William Stier, Richard Harding and Oscar Stier. J. Howard Carlisle, a captain in the U.S.A. (July 11, 1822 - December 16, 1866) may be another Civil War veteran.

While visiting here it is also worth seeing the grave of Herbert S. Thomas (?-1846) a veteran of the Mexican War who died at Monterey; Dr. David Harland (1809-1893), Medical Director for the U.S.N. and John Clark Monk (1760-1827) who was known as the "swinging sea captain" as he ordered that his body was not to touch the earth, thus sealed in a rum cylinder lead casket and suspended on chains inside his crypt.

ANNAPOLIS JUNCTION (area around intersection of Dorsey Road and Guilford Road, near intersection of Savage Road (Maryland Route 32 and Washington Boulevard (US Route 1) near Anne Arundel County line). The Rhode Island 71st Regiment was among the first to arrive in Washington in answer to President Lincoln's request for troops for the war effort. This regiment marched part of the way following the Annapolis and Elk Ridge Railroad. One of the first songs of the Civil War, "Nine Miles to the Junction," was sung by this unit during this march in April 1861, through part of what today is Fort Meade. The "Junction" was Annapolis Junction and "road" the railroad. Rhode Island "boy governor" William Sprague, a political general who was vain, mentally unstable, and a poor general, lead the regiment. His white horse was shot out from under him during the Battle of Bull Run July 16, 1861. He married the daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury and later Supreme Court Justice Salmon P. Chase, Kate Chase Sprague, who was the belle of Washington society.

1) The troops from Rhode Island were posted along,
On the road from Annapolis Station,
As sev'nty First Regiment, one thousand strong,
Went on in defense of the nation.
We'd been marching all day in the sun's scorching ray,
With two biscuits each as a ration,
When we asked Gov'nor Sprague to show us the way,
And how many miles to the Junction?
How many miles, how many miles,
How many miles, to the Junction?
We asked Gov'nor Sprague to show us the way,
And how many miles to the Junction?

2) And Rhode Island boys cheered us on out of sight,
After giving the following injunction:

"Just keep up your courage, you'll get there tonight,
For it's only nine miles to the Junction."
They gave us hot coffee, a grasp of the hand,
Which cheered and refreshed our exhaustion,
And we reached in six hours the long-promised land,
For 'twas only nine miles to the Junction.
Only nine miles, only nine miles,
Only nine miles to the Junction.
We reached in six hours the long-promised land,
For 'twas only nine miles to the Junction.

3) And now as we meet them in Washington's streets,
They always do hail us with unction,
And still the old cry someone surely repeats:
"It's only nine miles to the Junction!"
Three cheers for the warm-hearted Rhode Island boys,
May each one be true to his function,
And whenever we meet, let us each other greet
With, "Only nine miles to the Junction!"
Only nine miles, only nine miles,
Only nine miles to the Junction,
Whenever we meet, let us each other greet,
With, "Only nine miles to the Junction!"

4) Nine cheers for the flag under which we will fight,
If the traitors should dare to assail it,
One cheer for each mile that we made on that night,
When 'twas only nine miles to me Junction.
With hearts thus united, our breasts to the foe,
Once again with delight we will hail it,
And if duty should call us, still onward we'll go,
If even nine miles to the Junction.
Even nine miles, even nine miles,
Even nine miles to the Junction.
If duty should calls, still onward we'll go,
If even nine miles to the Junction.

CHESTERTOWN CIVIL WAR MONUMENTS – north side of Chester River, Augustine-Herman Highway/Chestertown-Church Hill Road [Maryland Route 213] (National Historic District).

CHARLES SUMNER PORT G.A.R. POST – 206-208 Queen Street, west of the intersection with Cannon Street. Former US Colored Troops established this Grand Army of the Republic post and built this meeting hall in 1908 (see also Janes Cemetery listing). G.A.R. posts were responsible for marking many of the Civil War veterans' graves throughout the nation. This G.A.R. post is believed to be one of only two that survive in the United States.

MEMORIAL PARK – southeast side on medium between High and Cross Streets. A Civil War monument was erected here in 1917, displaying Union veteran names on one side and Confederate veteran names on the other. Family names appear on both sides. Reflecting the prejudice of the day, African American veterans were omitted. This omission was corrected in 1999 when a monument to African-American Civil War veterans was erected.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH CEMETERY – 1607 Grace Church Road, northeast intersection with Georgia Avenue [Maryland Route 97], near 16th Street, Silver Spring, Montgomery County. Here in 1896 was erected a monument commemorating the seventeen Confederates who died during an attack at Fort Totten on July 12, 1864. Gen. Jubal A. Early with 2,000 men attempted to take Washington D.C. which spies indicated was poorly defended. Delayed at the Battle of Monocacy, the defense of Washington was strengthened, defeating the Confederate attack. President Lincoln observed the battle from the fort (13th and Quakenbos Street).

MONOCACY CEMETERY, BEALLSVILLE – Darnestown Road (Maryland Route 28), northeast of the intersection with Beallsville Road (Maryland Route 109). This cemetery was established in 1747 and surrounded the Old St. Peters' Church, also known as Old Monocacy Chapel and Monocacy Confederate Chapel. Here among the over 3,500 graves are buried at least thirty-five Civil War veterans. No gravestone was found for Francis E. Burch (1823 1898, row E, lot 26, site 2) or Richard S. Stallings (row B, lot 10).

Near the Confederate Chapel where the original entrance was once located is a monument to Confederate soldiers who are buried here. The original marble for this monument was brought from England by Benjamin White and used in a tan yard on his land in Buck Lodge. It was later used as a garden seat and finally used for the monument in 1911. The present plaque rests on part of that original stone:

OWEN FAMILY CEMETERY – DORSEY-CLAGETT OWENS CEMETERY, BROOKEVILLE – Gregg Road, west of the intersection with Georgia Avenue (Maryland Route 97). Here is buried Col. Gustavus W. Dorsey who in 1860 joined a cavalry company (including 17 members of the Dorsey family), called the "Howard County Dragoons." When the 6th Massachusetts marched through Baltimore on April 19, 1861, resulting in civil disturbance his unit helped to restore order. When Maryland became a Union state, Dorsey was among 75 men, most from the "Dragoons," who organized under the "Maryland Cavalry" and joined the 7th Virginia Cavalry. He fought in the battle of First Manassas (July 21, 1861). On April 26, 1862, Dorsey was elected 1st lieutenant and on August 6, 1864 elected captain where he was officially assigned to Company H, 1st Maryland Cavalry. He fought at Moorefield, West Virginia (August 7, 1864), after which he was promoted lieutenant colonel in command of the Regiment. In April 1865, the regiment made its final charge at Appomattox in an attempt to join Gen. Joseph Johnston's army at Lynchburg. The 1st Maryland Cavalry was disbanded on April 28, 1865. On April 28, 1865, Brig. Gen. Thomas T. Munford said when ordering the 1st Maryland to disband, that, "You who struck the first blow in Baltimore and the last blow in Virginia have done all that

CHRIST CHURCH CEMETERY, ACCOKEEK – 600 Farmington Road between Auburn Road and Bryan Point Road. The standing structure was built in 1857 using brick from the 1748 structure which burnt on Christmas Eve 1856. Here is buried Charles Baldwin, a coal heaver onboard U.S.S. Wyalusing. He was awarded the Medal of Honor December 31, 1864. Baldwin was one of five crew members of the U.S.S. Wyalusing to be awarded the Medal of Honor during the war. The church was occupied by Union troops in 1861-1865.

BALDWIN, CHARLES H., Coal Heaver, U.S.S. Wyalusing, U.S.N., DOD November 22, 1911 – Awarded Medal of Honor 31 December 1864; citation reads: “Serving on board the U.S.S. Wyalusing and participating in a plan to destroy the rebel ram Albemarle in Roanoke River, 25 May 1864. Volunteering for the hazardous mission, C.H. Baldwin participated in the transfer of 2 torpedoes across an island swamp. Weighted by a line which was used to transfer the torpedoes, he swam the river and, when challenged by a sentry, was forced to abandon the plan after erasing its detection and before it could be carried to completion. Escaping the fire of the muskets, C.H. Baldwin spent 2 days and nights of hazardous travel without food, and finally arrived, fatigued, at the mother ship.”

DOWNING FAMILY CEMETERY, AQUASCO – private property off of Croom Road, north of the intersection with Aquasco Road (Maryland Route 381). Reportedly defunct. Here is buried John Zachariah Downing who enlisted as a private in the 1st Maryland Infantry, Company H, where he fought in the Valley Campaign. Two months after the end of his one-year enlistment he reenlisted as a corporal in the newly formed 2nd Maryland Infantry, Company B, where he fought at Winchester, Gettysburg and Cold Harbor. On August 18, 1864, he was wounded in the thigh at the Battle of Weldon Railroad. Upon his recovery he served at Petersburg where he was captured on April 2, 1865, and sent to Point Lookout Prison (see Point Lookout) Maryland. He was paroled on June 11, 1865, after signed the Oath of Allegiance.

FOREST GROVE METHODIST CHURCH CEMETERY / ANDREW’S AIR FORCE BASE CHAPEL #02 CEMETERY, MEADOWS – Fletchet Avenue, east of the intersection with Patrick Avenue. Access limited to military personnel. In the years before the Civil War the congregation of Forestville United Methodist Church (see Forestville Memorial United Methodist Church) became divided. The “Northern” church remained at Forestville while a new “Southern” church was established here in 1854. Many extended families were divided between the two churches. During the Civil War Union troops camped here. At least one Union soldier is buried here.

PUMPHREY, ENOS F., Private, Company A, 5th District of Columbia Infantry, U.S.A., DOD May 20, 1913

FOREST MEMORIAL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH CEMETERY / OLD FIELD METHODIST CHURCH, FORESTVILLE – 3111 Forestville Road, near Forestville Plaza. This area was originally called “Old Fields”. A church was built here at “Long Old Fields” in 1850. A second church structure was built in 1852 probably due to a fire. A third church structure was built in 1888 which was destroyed in a second fire in 1967. There are at least 228 burials here but most are unmarked. During the Civil War the congregation became divided. The “Northern” church remained here while a new “Southern” church was established at Forest Grove, now a chapel at Andrews Air Force Base (see Forest Grove Methodist Church Cemetery). While there are no markers which identify any Civil War veterans, there are Evans family markers of Civil War interest. Rev. Wm. B. Evans, a Union spy, had two of his twelve children die during the war and are buried here. Another son fought in the Civil War but his place of burial is unknown. Rev. Evans preached to both black and white in the community. He died in 1887 and is buried in Northeast Washington. At nearby Epiphany Episcopal Church Cemetery, within view of the Forest Memorial Church Cemetery, are buried Civil War veterans.

(Maryland Route 704). Here lies Osborne Perry Anderson (1830-1872), an African-American, who participated in John Brown's raid on the arsenal at Harpers Ferry (October 17-18, 1859). The only survivor who was not killed outright in the raid or captured and executed, he later wrote an account of this raid A Voice from Harpers Ferry. Brown and his compatriots believed a slave insurrection would result in his raid and help bring an end to slavery, but instead the raid helped to bring on the Civil War which eventually did end slavery in the United States. Anderson is believed to have been originally buried at Rhode Island Avenue where some 37,000 remains were moved in 1959 to National Harmony Memorial Park. Also buried here are two African-American Medal of Honor recipients: Christian A. Fleetwood and Thomas R. Hawkins. Both received their medals while serving as a sergeant majors for action at Chapin's Farm, Virginia, September 29, 1864.

ST. THOMAS EPISCOPAL CHURCH CEMETERY, CROOM – St. Thomas Church Road off of Croom Road (Maryland Route 382). The colonial cruciform chapel was completed in 1745, modified in 1859 by the addition of an east chancel, the bell tower was added in 1888 and a small northeasterly sacristy was added in 1905. During the 1850s stained glass winders were installed in reconfigured Gothic-arch windows and decorative vergeboards applied to the able eaves. In the church graveyard are at least five graves of Confederate veterans. Charles Cushing West is probably an additional Confederate veteran.

William Thomas Wallis enlisted in Company E, 1st Maryland Infantry in May of 1861. He was shot in the abdomen during the Valley Campaign in June 1862 being discharged from a military hospital in Culpepper, Virginia. Wallis reenlisted in Company B of the 1st Maryland Cavalry around July 1865 and captured at Moorefield, Virginia, on August 7, 1864, and sent to Prisoner of War to Camp Chase, Ohio, where he was released on May 13, 1865. He settled in Croom, Maryland (see also Soldiers of Kent in the Federal and Confederate Armies Monument listing under Memorial Park under Chestertown where Wallis is listed).

SURRATT HOUSE MUSEUM, CLINTON – 9118 Brandywine Road (Maryland Route 381). Built in 1852 as a middle-class plantation home, the Surratt House served as a safe house for the Confederate underground which flourished in Southern Maryland. After the death of her husband Mary Eugenia Surratt (nee Jenkins) moved to a townhouse in October, 1864, which the family owned at 541 H Street in Washington City. There she ran a boarding house where John Wilkes Booth came to know the Surratt family. The Surratt House became her country home. Mary became the first woman to be executed by the United States government after being found guilty by a military court of conspiring with John Wilkes Booth to assassinate Abraham Lincoln. She was hanged July 7, 1865, at age 45 at the Fort McNair Penitentiary, Washington, D.C. Mary Surratt was originally buried on the grounds of the penitentiary but her body was later moved to Mount Olivet Cemetery on Bladensburg Road, Washington, D.C. A fragment of her broken gravestone, inscribed “Mrs. Surratt,” was found in a gardener’s house and donated to the Surratt House where it is now on display. A new gravestone with a cross marks her grave at Mount Olivet. Less than a year after Mary Surratt was hanged, the Supreme Court ruled that a military court had no jurisdiction in civilian cases, if the civil courts were open. The civil courts of the District of Columbia were open at that time and had the Supreme Court ruling come a year earlier, Mary Surratt might never have been executed for in 1867 her son John Harrison Surratt, Jr., (1844-1916) (see Gleeson Monument, where he is buried), with virtually the same witnesses and for essentially the same crime, was not convicted by the civil court in the District of Columbia.

DEEP FALLS CEMETERY, CHAPTICO – Deep Falls Road, northeast of the intersection with Budd’s Creek Road (Maryland Route 234). PRIVATE. Deep Falls derives its name by the steep contour of the land at the back of the house. In the family cemetery is buried Richard “Dick” Thomas, a colonel in the Confederate Army and Dr. James Waring, also a Confederate veteran. Only a plaque is present for Thomas as family tradition claims he was buried in the northeast corner of the cemetery without a marker so the Yankees would not find him. Here also is buried Richard’s uncle Dr. James Thomas, Governor of Maryland from 1826-1832 and his grandfather William Thomas who served as a lieutenant in the Continental Army and later as a major in the Maryland Line. A slave graveyard, now overgrown, lies to the south of the family cemetery in a clump of trees.

ST. JOSEPH'S (OLD) CEMETERY, MORGANA – intersection of Point Lookout Road (Maryland Route 5) and Busy Corner Road. Do not confuse this first cemetery with the later one directly across from St. Joseph's Church. Old St. Joseph's Cemetery was established circa 1759. Here are buried at least three Civil War veterans and a probable fourth. One gravestone (believed to be lot 101), marked by a Confederate flag, is broken and contains no text. It is located next to Joseph M. Long (lot 100). The unidentified veteran may be Henry Knott (January 4, 1814 - February 25, 1904). Robert Long in his book Valor In a Border State states Pvt. William Thomas Bailey is buried here but no gravestone was found nor is he listed on the cemetery identification map or in any of the on-line data bases for this cemetery. Perhaps he is buried in another St. Mary's County cemetery? Pvt. William Thomas Bailey served in Company A, 2nd Maryland Infantry. He was severely wounded at Squirrel Level Road, Petersburg, admitted to Chimborazo Hospital No. 2, Richmond, October 3, 1864, furloughed for 60 days on November 16, 1864, and never returned to active duty.

THE PLAINS CEMETERY SITE / also called Orphan's Gift, GOLDEN BEACH – the cemetery is located on north side of Allen Road, 0.2 miles from intersection with Golden Beach Road, 3.2 miles from “T” intersection with All Faith Church Road and another 2.5 miles from Waldorf-Leonardtown Road Maryland Route 5).

Only the cemetery survives from the circa 1760 plantation known as The Plains. The stuccoed brick house was destroyed in 1958. Here Hetty Cary Martin, a southern sympathizer stayed after successfully smuggling supplies to the Confederacy (see also St. Thomas' Church and St. Clement's Island). The Plains was the home of Col. John Sothoron who killed a Union officer when he attempted to recruit his slaves. The Colonel fled to Virginia and his home confiscated by the federal authorities in 1864. He returned home in 1866 and was tried and found innocent of manslaughter by a southern sympathetic St. Mary's County court.

POINT LOOKOUT, SCOTLAND – southern tip of land between Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay, southern end of Point Lookout Road (Maryland Route 5).

Point Lookout played a significant role in the Civil War, serving as important Prisoner of War Camp for captured Confederate soldiers, hospital, fort, and contraband settlement where many blacks joined the 38th Colored Troops. The Union Army established a hospital at Point Lookout after Gen. George McClellan's Peninsula Campaign failed to capture Richmond, Virginia. A prison was established at the point following the Battle of Gettysburg as the Union desperately needed a repository for Confederate soldiers in the Mid-Atlantic region.

The inmate population at Point Lookout ballooned as the war progressed. Between 1863 and 1865, more than 50,000 prisoners passed through the gates as many prisoners only briefly stayed in Point Lookout before transferring to other prisons farther north. At various points over this period, the total population of Point Lookout reached 20,000 or more, double the intended capacity. Approximately 4,000 Confederates died at the site. Many of the inmates lived in tents instead of barracks, which contributed to the large number of deaths by exposure.

Confederate remains at Point Lookout are interred in a common grave. Originally, the soldiers were buried in two cemeteries near the prison camp. However, in 1870 the state of Maryland removed the remains to a more favorable site one-mile inland. After the transfer, the individual graves could not be identified; as a result the remains were buried in a common grave. In 1910, Maryland asked the federal government to assume care of the burial site and, toward that end, passed an act relinquishing all right, title, and interest in the cemetery. The federal government began maintenance of this property that same year and an 80' tall granite obelisk was erected marking the common grave. The monument includes 12 bronze tablets inscribed with the names and command of 3,382 known Confederate soldiers and sailors, and 44 civilians. Four of these tablets are attached to the base of the monument, and eight are on the grass mound supporting the monument. The Van Amridge Granite Company created the monument. Adjacent to the Confederate Soldiers and Sailors Monument is a marble monument erected by the State of Maryland in 1876 dedicated to the Confederate dead. This monument is not owned by the National Cemetery Administration.

During the Civil War approximately 462,634 Confederate soldiers were taken prisoners of war. Approximately 247,769 of them were paroled on the field. Approximately 25,976 died in prison representing a 12% mortality rate.

Final Point Lookout Prison Burial Site – located on the south side of Point Lookout Road (Maryland Route 5) at intersection with Michaels Manor Way, 50200 block of Point Lookout Road).

Federal Monument – 85-foot tall obelisk monument was erected in 1910-11. While the number of dead is given as 3,384, the total number of names on the monument including the unknown total is 3,389. Still many known to have died at the prison are not listed on the monument. William T. Humphreys, of Locust Hill, near Richardsville, Virginia, joined a Confederate unit in the field without formal enlistment. He was captured and died at Point Lookout as stated in his family's bible. Edwin W. Beitzell in his research on this topic found 21 percent of the names on the National Archives death list for Point Lookout are missing from the plaques surrounding the monument. At least 3,435 dead are recorded and the actual number probably exceeds 4,000 [Baltimore National Cemetery maintains a missing name list which currently numbers 400 individuals; copies are usually available at the Point Lookout Federal Monument].

To obtain a list of Confederate veterans buried here got to <http://gravelocator.cem.va.gov/> and click on Point Lookout Confederate Cemetery. While the official total of dead is recorded as 3,382 other sources claim the total is much higher; see for example <http://www.plpow.com/POWDead.htm>.

Twelve bronze plaques containing the names of the deceased surround the monument; these names are found in a name locator book at the site and can also be found on the web.

Maryland Monument – approximately 25-foot tall, white marble obelisk monument, erected in 1876, was made possible by hosting tournaments and balls at Point Lookout to raise the necessary funds. Most the Confederates buried here were first buried in a prison graveyard that because of erosion were moved to Tanner Creek in 1870 about a half mile north of the prison. In 1910 they were moved for a second time to a mass grave behind the Maryland Monument.

Point Lookout State Park (end of Point Lookout Road) – here was an extensive Union facility which included a prison for captured Confederates, a hospital, fort, and numerous associated buildings. The dead were buried in several cemeteries; a “Union Graveyard,” “Colored Burying Ground,” two “Rebel grounds,” as well as several smaller plots in various locations. The four principal burial yards were consolidated into two locations near the Confederate graveyard on the Bay side of the point nearly due east of Lake Conoy near where the Maryland Roadside Historical Marker is located today (see below). Due to erosion these consolidated graves were moved in 1870 to a site near Tanner Creek. The State of Maryland monument was erected here in 1876. In 1910 Maryland ceded the property to the Federal government for a National Cemetery. However, the graves were moved for a third time that same year to the present 1.03-acre site at Scotland. The Maryland Monument was moved back in 1910-1911 to mark the original Confederate graveyard but probably due to erosion it was moved a second time to the Tanner Creek site. In May of 1938 the Maryland Monument was moved a third time to its present National Cemetery site. Within the park is a small Civil War Museum which interprets the role Point Lookout played during the war.

HARRIS, JOHN F., Private, 1st Maryland Light Artillery, C.S.A., DOD 1903

ST. CLEMENT'S ISLAND – access by boat from Colton Point Potomac River, St. Mary's County (National Historic District). Smuggling often took place between Blackistone Island, as it was then called, on the Union side of the Potomac River and the Confederacy on the Virginia side. One smuggler was Hetty Cary Martin who along with her sister and cousin made several dangerous trips between the Union and Confederate lines, once crossing from Blackistone Island "passing with muffled oars in the dark within gun shot of the U.S. Man of War 'Pawnee.'" During another crossing she stayed at The Plains (see separate listing) on the Patuxent River where her father met her to take her home. Hetty, said to be the most beautiful woman in Baltimore, met and married John Pegram during one of these forays into Virginia. President Davis loaned his private carriage for their wedding. Pegram was killed in battle and buried three weeks to the day after the wedding. Hetty was born at Haystack, in northeast Baltimore County. He lived in a row house at the corner of Eutaw Street and Biddle, now the site of Maryland General Hospital. She is buried at St. Thomas' Church (see St. Thomas' Church), where a distant cousin places a Confederate flag on her grave each July 4th.

SMITH, JOHN F., Private, Company A, Davis' Maryland Cavalry, C.S.A., DOD 1921 – POW February 1864 Newtown, Virginia

ST. NICHOLAS CEMETERY, LEXINGTON PARK – Cedar Point Road within the boundaries of the Patuxent Naval Air Station. The original wooden chapel built in 1795 was replaced by the present 1915 structure. Here are at least 600 graves. When the property was acquired by the Federal Government in 1942 the gravestones were laid flat and covered by sod as it was an unnerving presence for superstitious test pilots who trained here. Since then many gravestones have been dug up, restored and re-erected. A few memorials have been erected later by descendants of those buried here. Col. Cornelius Combs of Glen Mary Farms, Park Hall (south of St. Mary's City), was appointed Vice President of a commission to protect southern interest in St. Mary's County during the Civil War. Charles Chapman was a slave owned by D. Freeman who gave him his freedom in exchange for him signing up in the Union Army. Freeman

SEMMES RAPHAEL MEMORIAL PLAQUE, CHARLOTTE HALL – southeast intersection of Charlotte Hall Road and Charlotte Hall School Road, immediately north of intersection of Waldorf-Leonardtown Road (Maryland Route 5), and New Market-Turner Road (Maryland Route 6). Here is a memorial to one of Charlotte Hall Military Academy's best-known students, Rear Adm. Raphael Semmes. Only one building survives from the academy, the Old White House, erected as a classroom building and headmaster's residence in 1803. The building was restored in 1938. Immediately east of the original school entrance on the east side of Charlotte Hall Road is Coole Springs. On the northern entrance column to the springs is a plaque to Confederate Navy hero Rear Adm. Raphael Semmes.

SOTTERLEY PLANTATION, HOLLYWOOD – 44300 Sotterley Lane east of intersection with Sotterley Road / Woodland Road (Maryland Route 245) (National Register of Historic Places). Sotterley, built in 1717, was owned by Dr. Walton Henson Stone Briscoe during the Civil War. Dr. Briscoe served as a surgeon for the local Confederate infantry company, the “Smallwood Virginiantes”. Three of Dr. Briscoe’s sons joined the Confederate Army. One of his sons, Henry H., served as acting assistant surgeon at General Hospital No. 2 in Richmond, Virginia. He was wounded twice and later surrendered at Appomattox Courthouse, Virginia. Another son, Pvt. David Stone Briscoe, served in Co. H, 1st Maryland Infantry, acting master of C.S. Navy school ship, then Co. D, 43 Virginia Cavalry “Mosby’s Rangers”. He is buried at St. John’s Episcopal Church Cemetery in Baltimore (see separate listing). George Briscoe, a Sotterley slave, enlisted in Co. J, 7 United States Colored Troops in 1863. On August 25, 1864, his regiment joined the reserve at the siege of Petersburg. George, the slave, and Henry, the son of Dr. Briscoe, served in their respective army’s simultaneously there. Henry returned to Sotterley after the war; George left with his regiment for Texas in 1865 where he died of cholera.

SUMMERSEAT CEMETERY, LAUREL GROVE – Locate off of Carolyn Lane, southwest of the intersection with Three Notch Road (Maryland Route 235). Now known as Summerseat Sanctuary, Inc., this plantation was once home to the Dorsey family. The Georgian plantation house was destroyed by fire in 1874. In the family graveyard, located northwest of the present house, is buried Confederate Pvt. Christopher Ireland Dorsey Costigin, who served in Company H, 1 Maryland Infantry, and then joined Pelham’s Company, Butler’s Horse Artillery. He fought in 27 battles and skirmishes, wounded in artillery duel at Philomount, Virginia. But died from complications of amputation of leg. All the gravestones are missing, replaced by bronze plaques mounted in cement. Dr. Gustavus Brown, attending physician to George Washington, lived here in 1799.

War a Union coaling station was established at Cross Manor. The station consisted of wharves, a loading derrick, coal storage sheds, blacksmith shop, magazine and a sutler's store. The U.S.S. Tulip, originally named the U.S.S. Chih Kiang, was converted to a gunboat to patrol the Potomac River, an important duty to reduce the transfer of supplies from the southern sympathizers of southern Maryland to Virginia. The boiler of Tulip exploded killing forty-nine of the fifty-seven crew. Two of the injured men were treated at the nearby U.S. General Hospital at Point Lookout. Eight of the unidentified men were buried at a nearby locust grove. Capt. J. M. Ellicott, grandson of Dr. C.M. Jones, then the owner of Cross Manor, wrote to the Secretary of Navy requesting that a monument be erected to the crew members who lost their lives. The Monument was dedicated in 1940.

COURT HOUSE GREEN, EASTON – North Washington and Dover Streets.

On the courthouse green is a large granite base with a bronze statue of a young man with a C.S.A. belt holding a confederate flag, monument to all the Talbot County Boys who fought for the Confederate Army. This monument was erected and dedicated in May 1916 by the Charles Winder Camp of the United Confederate Veterans. At the Battle of Gettysburg the Union's First Eastern Shore Regiment included men from Trappe's Company H who at Culp's Hill engaged fellow Trappe soldiers with the 1st Maryland Confederate Regiment. The color sergeants from both sides were cousins from Trappe. Cousin P.M. Moore of the Confederates was fatally wounded. Judge Richard Bennett Carmichael was arrested and then beaten by Union troops on May 29, 1862 inside the courthouse for his southern sympathies. He was held in jail for six months without charges or trial.

“Jos Ridgaway” refers to Joseph A. Ridgaway of Libertytown, Maryland, who joined the Confederate Navy in 1862. He was second in command aboard the submarine H.L. Hunley when during the evening of February 17, 1864 it sunk the U.S.S. Housatonic, part of the Union fleet blockading Charleston Harbor. This is considered the world’s first successful combat submarine sinking of an enemy ship. Ridgaway is the only Marylander of the six man crew. Hunley, which had sunk twice before this attack, is believed to have sunk a third time after the successful attack. Though Ridgaway was from Talbot County, the Maryland Chapter of the Sons of Confederate Veterans conducted a funeral for Ridgaway at Libertytown, Frederick County, on March 28, 2004, because one of the group’s members owned a funeral home there. Ridgaway along with the other crew members’ remains were buried in Magnolia Cemetery, Charleston, South Carolina, April 17, 2004.

CEMETERY, ST. MICHAEL'S – Canton Street, west of the intersection with South Talbot Street (Maryland Route 33). The present church structure dates from 1874. Here are buried at least twenty-seven Civil War veterans. Among them is a veteran of the Mexican War and Civil War, Capt. James T. Slover who was born and died at St. Michaels. He joined the U.S.N. during the Mexican War and again during the Civil War. Slover was appointed the only official master pilot of the Monitor, however during the famous encounter between the Monitor and Merrimack (March 9, 1862) Acting Master Samuel Howard of the Amanda volunteered as the temporary pilot. Slover served as a first-class pilot on the Union steamship The Dragon which served as a dispatch boat and tug. Slover was transferred to the Monitor on May 17, 1862, as the first and only official pilot. During the summer and fall of that year Slover was aboard Monitor during many engagements on the lower Chesapeake Bay and James River. When Monitor was ordered to assist in the capture of Wilmington, NC, negating the need of a Chesapeake pilot, Slover was transferred to the U.S.S. Commodore Morris on December 20, 1862, and served as pilot until August 1864. Slover also served as pilot aboard the U.S.S. Commodore Barney and was honorably discharged on April 1, 1865. At age 78 he applied for an additional invalid's pension based on blindness and rheumatism but his application was refused. While serving aboard Commodore Morris he was hospitalized for "disease of the eyes, affecting chiefly his right eye." Slover stated in his pension application that near-blindness was "account of straining by sun reflecting on a spy glass while on the lookout for rebel steamers."

ST. STEPHEN'S AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, UNIONVILLE – Unionville Road (Maryland Route 370), south of where it intersect with Tunis Mills Road (Maryland Route 370). Unionville is an African-American village founded in 1867 by former slaves of the nearby Wye and Lombardy plantations who fought during the Civil War. Each were leased an acre of land by their former owners. From this land they built Unionville, named in honor of the army that liberated them. Black leaders such as Talbot County's Frederick Douglass and Eastern Shore born Henry Highland Garnet and Harriet Tubman urged that blacks be allowed to fight for their freedom by enrolling in the Union Army. At least nineteen blacks which became founders of Unionville joined the Union Army in 1863; ten in the Maryland 7th Regiment and the others serving in the Maryland 4th, 9th and 10th. Here at this African-American church are buried nineteen Union veterans.

Of interest is Winder’s wife’s gravestone inscription which contains more military information about him than does his own.

Franklin Buchanan (1800-1874) was born in Baltimore and became an American naval officer. He was appointed a midshipman in 1815 and rose to be a commander in 1841. Buchanan was chief adviser to Sec. of the Navy George Bancroft in planning the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis and was its first superintendent (1845-47). In September 1861 Buchanan took the rank of captain in the Confederate Navy. He became the first commander of the Virginia (formerly the Merrimack) against the Union blockading squadron in Hampton Roads where he sank the U.S.S. Congress on March 8, 1863. Wounded in that engagement, he took no part in the famous battle of the Monitor and Merrimack the next day. Buchanan was promoted to admiral in the Confederate navy on August 21, 1862 until he was forced to surrender to David G. Farragut in the battle of Mobile Bay on August 5, 1864.

Charles Lowndes (1798-1885) was born in Maryland and became a naval officer. He entered the U.S.N as a midshipman in March 1815, was promoted lieutenant in 1825, commander in 1841, captain in 1855, and commissioned commodore in 1862. In 1860 he commanded the steam-sloop U.S.S. Hartford, and he served as a prize commissioner in 1864-5. Lowndes was a brother-in-law of Franklin Buchanan. He was suspected of sympathizing with the Confederates during the war.

WYE MILLS CEMETERY / WYE MILLS CHAPEL, WYE MILLS – Old Wye Mills Road (Maryland Route 662), south of the intersection with Queen Anne Highway (Maryland Route 404). This brick church was built 1717-1721 as a local chapel for St. Paul's Parish, Centreville. The church was restored in 1948-49 and represents a near-perfect example of a rural colonial church with brick floors, box pews, slave gallery and hanging pulpit and canopy. The vestry house is a 1957 reconstruction, erected on the original 1763 foundation. Here in the cemetery is buried at least one Union veteran.

ANTIETAM NATIONAL BATTLE FIELD, SHARPSBURG – The Battle of Antietam, September 17, 1862, took place here. During this bloodiest one-day battle of the American Civil War, there were so many dead that wooden planks used to cap the Lower Bridge, now called Burnside Bridge, were cut up to be used as temporary grave markers. This was the first American battlefield to be photographed before the dead were buried.

Following are monuments erected in 1900 (the Company A and I monument was erected in 1890) to commemorate units that participated in the battle. Each bears a bronze Maryland seal on the top of a granite pillar. The monuments are erected near or at the position these units fought in the battle. A map with the location of battlefield monuments is available at the park visitor center.

Maryland State Monument – east side of intersection of Smoketown Road with historic Hagerstown Pike.

This monument was dedicated Memorial Day 1900 with President William McKinley, a veteran of the Battle of Antietam, who served as the keynote speaker. Maryland was a border state that was deeply divided over the war. Maryland men from both sides fought here. The Maryland State Monument is the only monument at Antietam that is dedicated to both sides of the conflict. This gazebo-like monument consists of eight pillars supporting an octagonal sloping roof forming a dome mounted with a ball with a ribbon of stars on which is surmounted a female figure holding with both hands a sheathed sword with its end resting on the ground and a wreath at the handle end. Bronze crossed draped flags behind the Maryland seal decorate each corner of the gazebo just below the roof line. Just above the corner ornaments and below the roof line are listed on two lines the Maryland units that participated at Antietam:

on the exterior of monument there are four bronze plaques depicting battle scenes identified as follows:

ANTIETAM NATIONAL CEMETERY, SHARPSBURG – Shepherdstown Pike (Maryland Route 34). On July 17, 1863, Congress enacted legislation that authorized the President to purchase "cemetery grounds" to be used as national cemeteries "for soldiers who shall have died in the service of the country." Fourteen cemeteries were established that first year, including this one in Sharpsburg, where at the Battle of Antietam, the bloodiest day of the Civil War, took place. More than 23,000 casualties took place of which 4,776 Union soldiers died, 1,836 of whom are unknown. By way of comparison approximately 3,000 Americans, British and Canadians died on June 6, 1944, in the invasion of Normandy. Antietam Cemetery was dedicated September 17, 1867, five years to the day after the terrible conflict. Intended for both Union and Confederate dead, this cemetery was only used for Northern soldiers as partisan emotions and politics were still very high. The cemetery was closed for new burials in 1953 but an exception was made for US Navy Seaman Patrick Howard Roy, a native of nearby Keedysville, who was killed in the U.S.S. Cole terrorist attack in 2000.

...that the trustees of the Antietam cemetery had held a meeting, and, after a lengthy discussion, had resolved to set a part a portion of that cemetery for the burial of rebels, or to speak more plainly, to inter side by side with loyal men who perished to save the Government, the traitors who sought to destroy it (Washington, D.C. Chronicle, December 15, 1867).

Graven in Stone - this inventory is provided as a service to genealogists, historians and relatives of veterans listed in this work. This work may not be used for any commercial purpose without the express written permission from Eshelman and Rawlinson.

As a result of this controversial decision promised support from other states such as Pennsylvania was withheld. Finally the cemetery trustees agreed to inter the Confederate dead at a section of Rose Hill Cemetery (see separate listing), Hagerstown, about 14 miles from the battlefield. Some Confederate dead were also reentered at nearby Shepherdstown and Frederick. Antietam Cemetery was transferred to the national cemetery system established by the War Department in September 1877. By this time the cemetery suffered from neglect and many temporary markers were now gone. The federal government resodded and installed regulation headstones in 1878; most of the trees date from this effort.

Burials include those from the Battle of Antietam as well as other nearby actions such as South Mountain and Monocacy. The graves are arranged in a broad semi-ellipse, grouped by state. The unknown graves are located to the back left portion of the cemetery.

The entrance gate consisting of four posts surmounted by urns, manufactured by Robert Wood Company of Philadelphia, was erected in 1866. The cemetery lodge just inside the gate was designed in 1867 by Paul J. Peltz of Washington, D.C. who also help to design the Library of Congress building in 1873.

The Private Soldiers Monument (also known as “Old Simon”) represents a Union soldier at parade rest had been approved in 1867 and designed by James G. Batterson and sculpted by James W. Poletto. It was exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876 but never erected as the cemetery trustees were unable to pay for it due to financial problems over wanting to include Confederate burials. Under the federal ownership the monument was installed in January 1880 and dedicated on the anniversary date of the battle on September 17 of that year. Approximately 15,000 attended the dedication.

The soldiers’ monument was shipped to the cemetery on the C&O Canal. During shipment the top section of the monument fell into the Potomac River while being transferred to a canal boat and had to be retrieved before transport could be complete.

Encircling the Soldier Monument are ten iron tablets inscribed with a verse of Theodore O’Hara’s poem “Bivouac of the Dead.” The poem commemorates those killed in military action and is found in many veterans and national cemeteries. O’Hara served in the Confederate Army as a colonel in an AL regiment. It is speculated he is not cited as the author of the poem because he fought for the Confederacy.

Of the 5,032 veterans buried here 4,776 are Civil War veterans (1,836 of whom are unknown); of these 103 Civil War veterans about one hundred were Marylanders. They are buried together on the southeast side of the Soldiers Monument. Their inscriptions are not repeated here as this information is available in The Bivouacs of the Dead.<sup>ii</sup> as well as on line at:

FAIRFAX, ADMIRAL DONALD HOUSE, HAGERSTOWN – west side of Prospect Street, south of Antietam Street. Admiral Donald Fairfax served as a naval officer during the Mexican War and the Civil War. Born at Mount Eagle, Virginia, Fairfax entered the U.S.N. as a midshipman on August 12, 1837. As executive officer on U.S.S. San Jacinto, he was a participant in the 1861 "Trent Affair," a diplomatic controversy involving the U.S. Navy's removal of Confederate commissioners from the British mail-steamer, R.M.S. Trent. On November 8, 1861, Fairfax boarded Trent to remove Confederate commissioners James M. Mason and John Slidell, after the ship had been stopped by his captain, Charles Wilkes. Fairfax demanded the passenger list, but Mason and Slidell identified themselves. He escorted Mason by the collar, to the cutter, and with two officers took hold of Slidell from the main cabin. He failed to claim Trent as a prize, citing the loss of manpower for a prize crew thus avoiding a worse incident of taking a neutral foreign vessel on the high seas. Fairfax commanded the U.S.S. Cayuga, U.S.S. Nantucket and U.S.S. Montauk. Fairfax was later promoted to flag rank, retiring as a Rear Admiral on September 30, 1881. He retired to Hagerstown where he served on the vestry of Saint John's Church. Admiral Fairfax died in 1894. In 1917 the Wickes class destroyer U.S.S. Fairfax (DD93) was named in his honor.

FAIRVIEW CEMETERY, KEEDYSVILLE – north off of Coffman Farm Road, and east of the intersection of Coffman Farm Road with Shepherdstown Pike (Maryland Route 34).

FORT FREDERICK, BIG POOL – 11100 Fort Frederick Road, off Big Pool Road (Maryland Route 56) (National Historic Landmark). Site of nation's best preserved French and Indian War fort, built 1756-57. The Daughters of the American Revolution placed four Civil War era cannons at the fort in 1931. Why these inappropriate cannon were placed in a fort used during the French and Indian and American Revolutionary War is unclear. A plaque commemorating the event was placed inside the fort wall on the base of a cannon positioned in front of an opening in the wall:

HAGER MUSEUM, HAGERSTOWN – 110 Key Street, in City Park off Prospect Avenue (U.S. Route 11). Here is exhibited “Little Heiskell,” a weathervane in the shape of a Hessian soldier, commissioned by Jonathan Hager and designed by a German tinsmith of the same name. The symbol of Hagerstown, it sat atop the City Hall until 1935 when it was placed in the museum. Reputedly a Confederate sharpshooter shot the “heart” out of Little Heiskell during the Civil War.

HAGERSTOWN – Baltimore National Pike [US Route 40] and Prospect Avenue (U.S. Route 11). (National Historic District). On July 6, 1864, Gen. John McCausland, Jr. gave the citizens of Hagerstown one hour to provide $20,000 and 1500 outfits of clothing “from the skin out” for the use of the Confederacy or face having the town burnt to the ground. While the town could not obtain the clothing requested they did raise $29,313 which was sufficient to keep the town from being burned. The treasurer’s ledger book is exhibited at the Washington County Historical Society Museum (Miller House, 135 West Washington Street). Ironically, McCausland misread his order which was to demand $200,000; thus giving Hagerstown quite a deal. Margaret Greenawalt defiantly waved the Union flag at passing Confederate troops from second-floor porch at Bowman’s Confectionary, West Washington Street (see similar event in Frederick listing).

LINDEN HALL – south of Hagerstown along Downsville Pike look for a sign on the west side of the road that announces LINDEN HALL–Orchards and Dairy Farm. The circa 1800-1820 Linden Hall, located on a hill, provided unobstructed views from Maryland into Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The Confederate Signal Corps used this vantage point to determine the movements of the pursuing Union Army. The names David Hugh Crawford, Alwyn Grant Wilkins and Creswell Archimedes Calhoun Waller, all from South Carolina and members of Gen. McLaw's Division, Army of Northern Virginia, are penciled on a plastered wall in the attic, dated July 10, 1863, all in the same hand. Crawford was a 16-year old student when he enlisted in the Confederate Army. Gen. Robert E. Lee's army waited at Williamsport for rain-swollen waters of the Potomac to recede.

ROSE HILL CEMETERY, HAGERSTOWN – 600 South Potomac Street (Maryland Route 65) to the west of U.S. Route 40. Rose Hill Cemetery was chartered in 1866 on property known as “Wroe’s Hill”. Here in a specially designated area of the cemetery called the Washington Confederate Cemetery are interred the remains of 2,447 Confederate soldiers from the Maryland Campaign of 1862. Only 346 bodies were identified. While Union dead were re-interred at the Antietam National Cemetery by 1867, the Confederate dead remained where they had been buried after the battle of South Mountain and Antietam, many became exposed by farmers when plowing. In 1870 the Maryland General Assembly appropriated $5,000 to create the Washington Confederate Cemetery in a section of the pre-existing Rose Hill Cemetery, established in 1866. Ten years after the Battle of Antietam, the Confederate dead were exhumed and re-interred. Those bodies that could be identified were buried by their state while the majority were buried in rows and marked as unidentified. This re-interment was completed by 1874. On February 28, 1877 a monument of “hope” was erected; it is called the “Statue of Hope”.

The cemetery was officially dedicated on June 15, 1877. Special trains ran from Washington, Baltimore and Shepherdstown. Former Confederate Maj. Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, nephew of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee, dedicated the cemetery. An ornate iron arch with “WASHINGTON CEMETERY/ CONFEDERATE” across the top was erected on the Potomac Street side of the cemetery. President Dwight D. Eisenhower was the guest speaker at the rededication ceremony of the Washington Confederate Cemetery on September 3, 1961. This is the only Civil War cemetery under the jurisdiction of the State of Maryland. On the uphill side is a flag pole with a statue of Hope and aluminum plaque attached to a rock base. It depicts a copy of an 1888 map of the cemetery showing locations of graves in a semi-circle plan with names of graves when known.

One of the dead buried here is Benjamin H. Brantley who enlisted as a private in September 1861 and worked his up the ranks to be became a 2nd Lieutenant. He was wounded at the Battle of Sharpsburg, September 17, 1862, and died of his wounds. He is buried in an unmarked grave on the south side of the outer ring, section 2.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS MEMORIAL ARCH, BURKITTSVILLE – Gathland State Park, Crampton’s Gap, South Mountain, intersection of Arnoldstown and Gapland Roads, 2.0 miles west of Burkittsville. While this memorial was not erected for the dead, it is nevertheless an interesting Civil War monument as it is the only such monument in the world honoring war correspondents, artists and photographers. The complete inscription of the panels of this monument are not easily found and thus are presented here. Gapland was once the private retreat of George Alfred Townsend (1841-1914), who began his career as editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer and became the youngest war correspondent during the Civil War for the New York Herald. After the war he became a prolific and renowned syndicated newspaper columnist known by his pen-name “Gath” which is his initials plus the letter “h” inspired by a biblical passage: (11 Samuel 1:20) "Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askalon." Townsend purchased 100 acres here at Crampton’s Gap which he named “Gapland”. It was later renamed “Gathland” after him. Townsend summered here from 1885 to 1904 building several architecturally unusual structures including a Den and Library (ruins), Gapland Hall, mausoleum, and the War Correspondents Memorial Arch. The monument was erected in 1896 as a memorial to his fellow war correspondents, featuring tablets inscribed with the names of 157 correspondents, photographers and artists who saw and described in narrative and picture most of the events of the Civil War. Many names are omitted, some misspelled and others listed are not Civil War related. This is partly explained by Townsend’s anti-Southern bias. Photographers, artists, Southerners and the monument committee are listed in separate panels from the Union journalists. The monument was dedicated by Governor Lloyd Lowndes on October 16, 1896. It was turned over to the U.S. War Department 1904 and later transferred to the National Park Service.

The monument consists of a tower with attached arch. “WAR CORRESPONDENTS” runs across the upper level of the monument. Ruthanna Hindes described the monument in her book George Alfred Townsend as follows: "In appearance the monument is quite odd. It is fifty feet high and forty feet broad. Above a Moorish arch sixteen feet high built of Hummelstown purple stone are super-imposed three Roman arches. These are flanked on one side with a square crenelated tower, producing a bizarre and picturesque effect. Niches in different places shelter the carving of two horses' heads, and symbolic terra cotta statuettes of Mercury, Electricity and Poetry. Tables under the horses' heads the suggestive words "Speed" and "Heed"; the heads are over the Roman arches..." "SEPT. 14, 62-96" is located in the lower tower.

There are five panels on the monument, one on the south side, two on the north side, and two on the east side.

Road, east off Nanticoke Road (Maryland Route 349). In this African-American church cemetery, founded in 1850, lie at least two Union veterans. The inconsistency in the abbreviation of US Colored Infantry is exemplified here between these two military markers: I. versus INF.

DESHIELD, JOSEPH, Private, gravestone (military) inscription: JOS. DESHIELD/
CO. A. / 9 U.S.C.I. SCOTT, WILLIAM H, Private, gravestone (military) inscription:
WILLIAM H. SCOTT / CO. D / 23 U.S.C. INF.

FREEDMAN'S METHODIST CHURCH CEMETERY / FREEDMAN'S CHAPEL CEMETERY, TYASKIN – 21584 Tyaskin Road. From its name it can be assumed this church was founded by freed African-Americans in 1881. Here are buried at least six Union veterans.

DASHIELDS, JERRY, Corporal, gravestone (military and private) inscriptions (private gravestone is cement, difficult to decipher): (military) CORPL./ JERRY DASHIELDS/
CO. B./ 19[?] U.S.C.I. (private) IN MEMORY/ OF/ JERRY DASHIELDS/ AGED 71/ A

LANKFORD, ARNOLD, Private, Company K, 9th Infantry, U.S.C.T. – unit roster shows name as “Langford”

GENERAL HUMPHREY HUMPHREY’S CANNON, SALISBURY – Courthouse Plaza, near intersection of South Division Street and East Main Street. This cannon was erected in 1986 and reportedly commemorates Gen. Humphrey Humphreys, a veteran of the Civil War. There is no such individual in NPS database and the cannon itself appears to be of an earlier era, possibly from the War of 1812. Unfortunately little is known about the military career of this individual who was a prominent citizen of Salisbury and operated a mill in the mid to late nineteenth century.

ALL HALLOWS EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SNOW HILL – West Market Street (U.S. Route 113) and North Church Street (Maryland Route 12). This church was founded in 1692 and the current building constructed in 1748. Here is buried one Union veteran, James Raney. He was part of a unit assigned to Snow Hill to keep down any rebellion by the southern sympathizers. He died during his duty here and is buried alone away from the local parishioners of the church. Also in this graveyard is Wilmer Fleming Parker who was assassinated in MS on June 29, 1865. Parker was raised in Maryland, he may have been a carpetbagger, a southern sympathizer or a Union soldier who met his fate during the closing year of the Civil War. Also in the graveyard is a marker of the Handy family who are buried with their loyal and respected slave.

BERLIN – essentially the crossroads of Main Street [Maryland Route 818] and Broad-Bay Street (Maryland Routes 374 and 376), just south of Ocean Gateway [U.S. Route 50] and west of Worcester Highway (U.S. Route 113). There are at least two cemeteries in Berlin which contain the graves of Civil War veterans (see also Evergreen Cemetery listed under Possible Graves of Civil War Veterans But Could Not be Verified). Many slave owners in towns such as Berlin lost slaves who escaped and joined the Union Army or whose owners were compensated by the government for their slaves to join the U.S. Colored Troops. One unusual example was Cpl. Isaiah Fassett, better known as “Uncle Zear,” who was born in 1844 at nearby Sinapuxent. His owner Sarah A. Bruff released him from bondage on November 11, 1863 at age 19. Ms. Bruff received $300. Isaiah joined the 9th U.S. Colored Troop, as a private in Company D. He served in the campaigns of the Wilderness and the siege of Petersburg. His unit was among the first to occupy Richmond in April 3, 1865. Isaiah was promoted to rank of corporal and discharged November 26, 1865. His brothers Franklin, Andrew, John and George also served in the Union during the war. Isaiah settled in Berlin and attended the 75th reunion at Gettysburg, July 1938. He served as commander of the GAR post in Berlin until it was disbanded and then served in the GAR department of Delaware until his death in 1943. Isaiah was the second to last Maryland survivor of the Civil War. Memorabilia of the African-Americans who served from this area are displayed at the Calvin B. Taylor House Museum in Berlin.

APPENDIX 1

GRAVES FOR WHICH THE LOCATION IS IN QUESTION AND THE PRECISE LOCATION COULD NOT BE VERIFIED

The list below represents graves which could not be confirmed during attempts to locate them. At times sources such as the Directory of Maryland Burial Grounds provide vague or indeterminate location information. Sometimes the cemetery has been moved due to development or due to other causes. Sometimes the cemetery has been abandoned and difficult if not nearly impossible to find. On more than one occasion upon returning to a location under different seasonal and sun conditions a lone fallen marker was discovered that was overlooked on a previous visit. Persons with location information for these listed graves are encouraged to contact the author.

BISHOP FARM CEMETERY, MILLSTONE, WASHINGTON COUNTY – exact location unknown, except on Andy Bishop farm, northwest of Pecktonville.

BAIN, JOHN, Private, Company F, 1st Potomac Home Brigade Maryland Infantry, U.S.A., DOD December 15, 1919 – unit roster shows name as “Bayne”

BLADES FAMILY CEMETERY, FEDERALSBURG, CAROLINE COUNTY – precise location unknown.

DENNY FARM CEMETERY, ANDREWS, DORCHESTER COUNTY – off Andrews Road, between Andrews and Wesley Church. There are two Civil War veterans who served in the 1st Regiment Eastern Shore Maryland Infantry buried at this cemetery. Private. William A.

Graven in Stone - this inventory is provided as a service to genealogists, historians and relatives of veterans listed in this work. This work may not be used for any commercial purpose without the express written permission from Eshelman and Rawlinson.

Denny, born Apr. 21, 1843 died Dec. 9, 1909, served in Company B. Private. John T. Roberts, born March 18, 1844 died Oct. 7, 1866, served in Companies B and D. On a 1877 map of Dorchester County there is a J. Denny on the north side of Cedar Creek Road about a half mile east off Wesley Church Road. This may be the where the Denny Farm Cemetery is located. There is also an abandoned cemetery on the west side of Wesley Church Road, near the intersection with Andrews Road. The cemetery is visible only by a cast iron fence just visible through the vegetation. This could also be the Denny Farm Cemetery.

DIXON FARM CEMETERY, LAUREL GROVE, ST. MARY'S COUNTY – PRIVATE – Sergeant Phillip T. Reeder is buried here in an unmarked grave. Reeder enlisted in Company B, 2nd Maryland Infantry, captured at hospital in Strasburg, Virginia, exchanged, wounded at Weldon Railroad, Virginia, surrendered at Appomattox, Virginia, signed Oath of Allegiance and paroled.

DORSEY / OWINGS / WARFIELD CEMETERY, GLENELG, HOWARD COUNTY – precise location unknown.

APPENDIX 5

GOVERNMENT ISSUED MILITARY STONE ANOMALIES

There have been instances in which a Civil War model government gravestone (i.e. embossed lettering on a shield) was issued to a non-Civil War veteran. While they are usually given to those individuals who served in that conflict, one cannot assume that every gravestone of this type does belong to a War veteran.

Some examples shown

Doug Rawlinson

George Herling served as a Private in Battery B, 6th United States Heavy Artillery during the Spanish-American War, from October 1, 1898 to September 30, 1901, with subsequent service in the U.S. Infantry. He died October 28, 1918, and is buried at Green Mount Cemetery in Baltimore. Usually, a military gravemarker for a veteran of the Spanish-American War would have that inscription on the gravestone.

Doug Rawlinson

Joseph Thomas Linstid also served during the Spanish-American War period as a seaman on the U.S.C.G.S. Matchless from April 4, 1899 to August 9, 1900. Like Herling, he has a Civil War type of gravestone instead of one with the Spanish-American War inscription. This veteran died October 23, 1932, and is buried at Loudon Park Cemetery.

Gravestones in national cemeteries are not excluded from this issue. This gravestone for August Lange, in Loudon Park National Cemetery, shows the general characteristics of a Civil War marker. However, Lange was a career soldier, serving from 1889 through 1909, primarily in the 17th U.S. Infantry. Lange was born about 1868 and died October 30, 1910.

This is a similar gravestone to that shown for Lange. This marker belongs to Joseph A. Brophy, a private in Company D, 5th Maryland Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish-American War. However, unlike Lange, Brophy served only five months, from June to October 1898 in the 5th Maryland Volunteer Infantry. His interment papers contain all of his service information, none of which was placed on his gravestone. He died April 28, 1931.

Sergeant Theodore Zimmerman is buried at Loudon Park National Cemetery. He served during the Indian Wars period in Troop I, 3rd U.S. Cavalry from 1880 to 1885, with subsequent service in the 3rd U.S. Artillery from 1885 to 1890. Sergeant Zimmerman died September 29, 1918.

Charles William Bowers was a veteran of the Spanish-American War. He served from April 24, 1898 to September 30, 1898 as a Coxswain aboard the U.S.S. Dixie. He died November 28, 1932, and is buried at Loudon National Cemetery.

This gravestone was discovered at the San Francisco National Cemetery. It does show that errors can work both ways. Veteran Alexander McCall was a private in Company A 10th Maryland Infantry during the Civil War and served from June 1863 until January 1864. His pension record shows that he first drew a benefit in 1891. There was no 10th Maryland Regiment during the Spanish-American War.

His interment card shows that he was a Civil War veteran. However, someone penciled in "SAW," and that is what the government went with in issuing the gravestone.

Carol Parks

As shown in other examples, information displayed on gravestones cannot be assumed to be correct. A prime example of that surfaced in 2015 at the New Jersey Memorial Home Cemetery. Carol Parks of New Jersey posted this photo of a gravestone for a Civil war veteran online. However, through her posting, it was discovered that Robert Andrews was actually a Union veteran who served in the 1st Regiment Eastern Shore Maryland Infantry. After lying under a Confederate gravestone for 90 years, steps were being taken by the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War to have a Union grave marker installed on his burial site.

Other issues with military gravestones sometimes arise. Private Oscar H. Way, Company H, 8th Vermont Infantry, died of pneumonia at Jarvis U.S. General Hospital, Baltimore on April 6, 1865. His service record shows that he was buried at Loudon Park Cemetery, a private burial ground, where his grave marker is located. However, U.S. records including a National Cemetery Interment form show that he was buried at Loudon National Cemetery. A recent check of Loudon National Cemetery data could find no record of Way.

Margaret McMillin

This government issued gravestone is located in the Littleton Cemetery in Arapahoe County, Colorado, for Thomas Ross who died November 13, 1912 (per pension record). The issue with this marker is that Thomas Ross served in Co. B, 9th Maryland (MD) Infantry. There was a Thomas Ross in Co. B, 9th Maine (ME) Infantry, but he died on September 30, 1910 (per pension record), and is buried in Varnie Cemetery, Brunswick Maine. There is, of course, no way to know how this error occurred.

This government gravestone is in the Hampton Virginia National Cemetery for a “Lawrence Schutz” – served in Company H, 3rd Maryland Infantry, although he is not listed on their roster. Most records show his name as “Lawrence Schutz,” not “Schultz”. This is how the name is recorded in his pension record, his service record, discharge and in the records of the Hampton Veteran Home for Disabled Soldiers. His service record also shows him as “Lorenz Schutz”.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Eshelman and Rawlinson profited from the knowledge that many archivists, curators, librarians, and local experts freely shared with us. We were never refused access to cemeteries on private property once we explained our project. A great many individuals stopped what they were doing and cheerfully helped us find a cemetery we were searching for or put us in touch with someone they knew who could help us. To all of these folks, most of whom Eshelman and Rawlinson don't even know their name, this guide is dedicated with thanks.

During the course of visiting cemeteries Eshelman was fortunate to meet scores of individuals willing to take their time to help give him directions, offer information about others knowledgeable about cemeteries, and tell him about cemeteries he was not previously aware of. The following example illustrates the cooperation of strangers which helped to make this inventory as complete as it is. One morning Eshelman needed to mail a package but left the house before the post office was open. During the day's explorations he ended up in the small rural community of Claiborne on the Maryland Eastern Shore. As he was paying for the postage the postmistress asked what brought him to little Claiborne. Upon telling her of his attempt to visit every cemetery in Maryland to document veterans' graves prior to 1900 she asked if he knew of the Capt. James T. Slover grave at St. Luke's Church at St. Michaels. Eshelman was surprised to learn that Slover was the first and only master pilot to serve on the famous Union ironclad Monitor. On a scrap of paper she showed Eshelman exactly where in the cemetery this Civil War veteran's grave was located. On his return through St. Michaels Eshelman easily found the grave and reflected on how cooperative and helpful nearly everyone had been to him during this project. A few days later in the mail I received a package from Nancy H. Clark, postmistress at Claiborne. In it was material she has collected on Capt. Slover. She got my address from the return information on the package Eshelman mailed from her post office. This example of generosity will always stay with me as an example of the good will and good helpfulness of the typical Marylander.

Special acknowledge is given to Evelyne Eshelman, Scott Sheads and Nancy Bramucci who spent days helping Eshelman walk cemeteries all across Maryland in search of veterans. Sheads also freely shared his information on burials at the defunct Fort McHenry post cemetery. Others deserving special acknowledgment include Linda Reno who freely shared her research on Michael Brown Carroll and St. Nicholas Chapel Cemetery. Jacqui Hedberg, Francis Zumburum, Robin Roland and Jessica Reed of Green Ridge State Forest, Department of Natural Resources, provided valuable information about cemeteries and veteran graves in Allegany County; many in remote areas which would never have been found without Francis who took Eshelman by four wheel drive vehicle and overland walking to these sites. Debbie Hummell and William Divelbliss of Ross Hill Cemetery, Hagerstown, were particularly patient and helpful with all requests, both during visits and via email requests. Tina Simmons was most helpful and freely shared her Anne Arundel County grave and cemetery records. Special acknowledgement is also given to Bob Driver, Richmond, Virginia for providing additional service data on Confederate troops from Maryland; Mary Murray, Green Mount Cemetery; Betty Rose, Cedar Hill Cemetery, Baltimore; Keith Snyder, Chief of Resource Education and Visitor Services, Antietam National Battlefield; Mike Williams, Sons of Confederate Veterans; and Sharon Zepp, New Cathedral Cemetery, Baltimore.

Others who cheerfully shared data include Dorinda Shepley, Dena Cruz and Donna J. Jones. Without their valuable assistance numerous poorly known veteran graves would not have been included in this inventory. Many county cemetery groups freely shared their databases which have greatly benefited this inventory.

Special acknowledgment is given to Robert L. Long, author of Valor in a Border State: Confederate Soldiers of St. Mary's County, Maryland (2012). His research serves as a model of what can be done for each county in Maryland. Not only did he identify C.S.A. veterans from St. Mary's County, many of whom would have not made it this inventory without his effort, he also provides excellent information about the war record for most of these veterans. Such a study for each county would provide a valuable more comprehensive record of Maryland's Civil War veterans.

There are numerous individuals and organizations that assisted Eshelman and Rawlinson in researching and compiling this guide. The National Park Service through its American Battlefield Protection Program and the Maryland Office of Tourism Development and the Maryland Tourism Development Board provided funds for Eshelman to conduct a survey of cultural resources related to the American Revolutionary War and the War of 1812 that initiated the research partially resulting in this guide of Civil War veterans buried in Maryland.

The following individuals also deserve recognition for various forms of assistance in this project: Jonathan Beasley, the late Ronald Bozarth, Pat Callahan, Don Creveling, Ross Kimmel, Nancy Kurtz, Susan Langley, Darrin Lowery, Susan Pearl, Linda Reno, Franklin Robinson, Robin Roland, Ron Roller, Mary Louise de Sarran, Wayne Schaumburg, Suzanne Schoel and Edward Seufert.

Finally, the authors are indebted to the Maryland State Archives who saw the value of this inventory and agreed to provide it online not only to Marylander's, but anyone researching genealogy and Civil War history. The following Maryland State Archives staff assisted in this effort: Tim Baker, Elaine Bachmann, Maria Day, Emily Oland Squires, Mimi Calver and Jean Russo.

Researcher, Compiler, Author Profiles

Ralph E. Eshelman has over 37 years of cultural resource management experience. His work includes researching and writing the Historic Context Studies for the oystering and finfish industries of the United States for the National Maritime Initiative of the National Park Service. Eshelman prepared the Cultural Resource Management Plan for the United States Coast Guard. He has written numerous successful National Register of Historic Places and National Historic Landmark nominations including the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse and Grand Central Terminal Oyster Bar. Eshelman served as historian for the team which wrote the "Historic Lighthouse Preservation Handbook" for the United States Coast Guard and National Park Service. He was co-director of the Patuxent River Cultural Resource Survey which discovered and partially excavated an American War of 1812 military vessel from the U.S. Chesapeake Flotilla. Eshelman also conducted a holistic inventory of War of 1812 and Revolutionary War sites in Maryland for the American Battlefield Protection Program, National Park Service. He served as the historian for the "Star-Spangled Banner National Historic Trail" Study Team and Implementation Team of the National Park Service and served as the co-chair of the Resource Stewardship and Visitor Experience Committee of the Maryland War of 1812 Bicentennial Commission. He is author of five books including Maryland's Largest Naval Engagement: The Battle of St. Leonard Cree, 1814, Calvert County, Maryland (Jefferson Patterson Park and Museum, Studies in Archeology, No. 3, 2005) and The War of 1812 in the Chesapeake: A Reference Guide to Historic Sites in Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia (Johns Hopkins University Press co-authored with Scott Sheads and Donald Hickey, 2010). Eshelman was designated "Honorary Colonel of the Fort McHenry Guard" in 2009.

All the photographs in this guide were taken by Ralph Eshelman unless otherwise indicated.

A. Douglas Rawlinson was a history major in college during which he published his first article on the US aircraft industry in WWI. His great-great-grandfather, a veteran of the Civil War lived and worked at Solomon's Island, Calvert County, Maryland until the 1920's. Through this connection Rawlinson is a member of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War. His paternal side of the family came to the US in the 1890s from England. His great-grandfather, David, was an Anglican ministers whose two sons also became ministers. Rawlinson's grandfather, Frederick, on his paternal side, was a circuit riding preacher in Iowa, where Rawlinson's father was raised. His grandfather's brother, Frank, became a missionary to China where he lived for many years, becoming as Life magazine put it, "one of the most influential white men in China." In 1937, Frank was killed during the fighting around the city of Shanghai. The maternal side of Rawlinson's family traces back to 1780 in St. Mary's County, Maryland. Philip Cusick, his 4-great-grandfather was a veteran of the War of 1812. Rawlinson spends most of his free time researching and recording Maryland gravestones. This guide to Civil War gravestones is the first
